HERITAGE OF CANADA HAS EXPRESSION

Native Sons of Canada and Daughters Hear Hon. S. F. Tolmie and Hon T. D. Pattullo

DEFENCE OF YOUNG WOMEN OFFERED

Mrs. G. H. Gardiner Has No Doubt That Flappers Will Be Better Women Than Their Predecessors

PRIDE in the heritage possessed by Canadians in their native adopted land was breathed in the addresses delivered at the sixth annual banquet of the Native Sons of Canada and the Canadian Daughters' League, held in the rooms of the organization last evening.

In speaking to the toast of British Columbia, Hon. S. F. Tolmie, M.P., advocated on the part of residents of the province that they should make a resolve that they would by British Columbia products whenever possible. Hon. T. D. Pattullo, in replying to the toast, expressed the opinion that the name "Canadian" was not heard often enough in the country.

An outstanding feature of the speeches, in addition to the expression of loyalty to the cause of Canada as a part of the great Commonwealth of Nations composing the British Empire, was the outspoken defence of Mrs. G. H. Gardiner, treasurer of the Canadian Daughters' League, of the girls of the present generation. She had every confidence that out of the trying time through which they were passing that there would emerge a better type of womanhood.

To the toast of the British Commonwealth of Nations, Mr. J. H. Beatty, in proposing it, expressed the opinion that Canada was a very young nation in the position of having a lot to learn. He referred to the various characteristics of the British people that composed the Canadian people, and which went to make up a composite nation that would be a very virtuous one.

Referring to his recent visit to the Old Country he said that in spite of all that it had come through, that nation was by no means broke. Britain was going ahead. It stood as always for honor, sincerity, and tolerance. It was a nation that had the proud record of never having taken over any country without working to the benefit of the inhabitants of that country.

THE BRITISH COMMONWEALTH
Mr. B. C. Nicholas, in responding to the toast, called attention to the difference that existed between the Commonwealth which the British people comprised as compared with an empire. With the Imperialistic idea there was the thought of the holding together of the parts of that empire by force. It was the thought of the Commonwealth of Nations which they belonged. The Fathers of Confederation in Canada, he said, had in reality the fathers of the Commonwealth of Nations. These men had laid their foundations better than they knew. The Commonwealth of Nations would be the greatest agency for good of anything in the world.

CANADA A NATION
In eloquent words Mr. Thomas W. Hall proposed a toast to the Dominion of Canada. He went on to say that the worth of Canada was not to be judged by the material side of it. Neither was it to be confined to the historic record, glorious though that might be. He recalled the position that Canada had taken.

Big Intercity Mayoralty Swim Set for Tonight

MAYOR J. Carl Pendray, of Victoria, and Mayor Louis D. Taylor, of Vancouver, will meet tonight at 8 o'clock in the Crystal Garden swimming pool, to decide who can make the better time in a fifty yards breast stroke swimming race.

At the luncheon tendered by the City of Vancouver yesterday at the Crystal Garden to the mayors and guests attending the convention of the Western Canada Development and Unity League, Mayor Pendray declared that Vancouver's chief magistrate had said that he could beat him in a swimming race here.

"I wish to challenge Mayor Taylor to a swim and I hope all those attending the convention will be on hand to witness the competition. After the event, the winner will challenge all delegates, fifty yards breast stroke," said Mayor Pendray.

Mayor Taylor readily accepted the challenge and assured the audience that he would put forth his best efforts to emerge from the pool tonight as victor in the great intercity mayoralty swim.

BISHOP BARNES CAUSES DEBATE

Open Letter to Primate Awakens Widespread Interest—Tradition of Tolerance Invoked

LETTER CREATES NOVEL PRECEDENT

LONDON, Oct. 20.—With reference to the open letter sent to the Archbishop of Canterbury, Most Rev. Dr. Randall Thomas Davidson, Bishop Barnes of Birmingham, in answer to the sensational protest made in St. Paul's Cathedral by Canon Bullock-Webster last Sunday, some members of the Church of England declare that never since the Anglican schism from the Anglican Church in 1534 has Anglo-Catholicism received such a shock.

The Daily News, chief organ of the free churches, says: "Canon Bullock-Webster's supporters are so manifestly in the wrong that the Anglican tradition of tolerance is not likely to pay much attention to what they say now. The argument about transubstantiation leads nowhere and Bishop Barnes' doctrine, his demand for tolerance and fair play not only is mainly in tone, but right in substance. The Anglican tradition of tolerance is not the inglorious tradition which sneering critics sometimes pretend."

"If Bishop Barnes persecutes drove him out of the Church they might be left in possession of the ship, but it would be a sinking ship." Continued on Page 2

NANAIMO ASSIZE DOCKET IS LIGHT

Jury Returns Verdict of Not Guilty in Quilom Theft Case—Trials Listed

NANAIMO, Oct. 20.—An exceedingly light docket greeted the opening of Fall Assize opened here today, presided over by Mr. Justice Murphy. A true bill was returned in the case of J. S. McDonald, of Quilom, charged with theft and with being in possession of stolen goods. This case proceeded with during the afternoon session, and the jury after being out for five minutes returned a verdict of not guilty. Mr. H. A. McLean, Victoria, assisted by Mr. Arthur Linton, Nanaimo, conducted the case for the Crown, while Mr. Frank Cunliffe, Nanaimo, represented the accused.

Other cases to come before the court are three Hindus, J. Mahomed, Sakai Ali and M. Guva, charged by Mr. Arthur Linton, Nanaimo, with conspiracy, the charge being that the three accused conspired against Sandi, who was convicted of having drugs in his possession. A seventeen-year-old Japanese resident of Cumberland district, who is charged with manslaughter in connection with the death of Esther Wright, a schoolgirl of the district, who was run down and killed by an auto driven by the accused.

Edward Joe and Jacob George are charged with the murder of Edgar Ainsley Leach, a fishery officer at Tofofo.

BRITISH SUBMARINE ATTACKS PIRATE LAIR

HONG KONG, Oct. 21.—A submarine today attacked and set fire to the notorious pirate lair at Bia Bay, forty miles north of here, following the capture of a coastal steamer by the pirates, the China Merchants' Steam Navigation Company, owners of the vessel, announced. The pirates captured the ship Irene which was bound from Shanghai to Amoy Wednesday, and took the vessel and crew to Bia Bay, their headquarters. The British warship captured twelve of the pirates and brought them here. It also rescued the officers and crew of the Irene. The Irene was left at Bia Bay with the warship standing alongside.

PROBLEMS OF WEST DEMAND COGNIZANCE

Attorney-General Alex. Manson Addresses Members of Western Development and Unity League

PROVINCES MUST UNITE IN EFFORT

Action Taken by Maritime Provinces Advocated as Means to Secure Recognition from the East

IT is fitting that the toast of this organization should be to Western Canada as a whole, and not to British Columbia alone. You have associated yourselves into a league, not intended to differentiate between the East and the West, but in the gathering together of your representatives to discuss problems common to all of Western Canada, such as transportation. One of the penalties of the vastness of our provinces is that we do not know each other as we should. So it is fitting that the toast is to the Western Provinces, for only by getting together in this way can we develop interprovincial trade," Mr. Alex. Manson, Attorney-General of British Columbia, stated in responding to a toast proposed by Mayor Louis D. Taylor, of Vancouver, at the banquet tendered by the city of Victoria to the third annual convention of the Western Development and Unity League.

Mr. Manson said that the East had dominated Canada too long. He did not blame the people of the Prairie Provinces in rising in rebellion the way they did and asserting themselves at Ottawa. He referred to the new party of Progressives, the two old parties had been ruled too long by Eastern influence and he believed that had been in the hands of the West. The West had risen up in rebellion against this dominance.

"If we are to make Canada what it should be, we must deal with the West. The speaker said. He told of how the Maritime Provinces submerged in the West. The West in the united effort to have their just demands met. They demanded the Maritime Commission, which eventually was established. He said that the Maritime difficulties of the Maritimes and heard the problems that these provinces had to face. So should the Western Provinces of Canada unite in thought and effort to solve the common problems of the West.

FREIGHT RATES
Equal treatment in the matter of freight rates was one of the problems in which Western Canada would have to unite. Equal rates should be set on a truly national basis. The speaker expressed the opinion that British Columbia so far had borne the cost of fighting for equalization in freight rates, how since 1923 a reduction of eleven per cent had been secured, which had saved the shippers something like $15,000,000. He deplored the attitude of Manitoba, which he said, opposed equalizing rates. "We must sacrifice something ourselves in order to place every portion of Canada on a fair basis," he said.

There were things in common between the various provinces of Western Canada, he said, as he referred to the litigation over the Blue Sky law. The expenses of this litigation could be greatly lowered to each province if Western Canada united in one effort. British Columbia was an agricultural province and in this connection on Page 11

Fear Mishap for Count de Lesseps in Quebec Flight

QUEBEC, Oct. 20.—The finding of two wings of an airplane at Sandy Bay on the St. Lawrence River today, has led to the belief that Count de Lesseps, pioneer aviator, had met with a mishap in a flight which he began Tuesday morning from Gaspe to Valparaiso in Eastern Quebec province. Count de Lesseps is a son of Count Ferdinand de Lesseps, famous for his work with the Suez and Panama Canals. He has been engaged during the past summer by a commercial company to map the eastern part of the Province of Quebec. Shortly after he left for Valparaiso a heavy fog set in, and after the Count and his mechanic had been overdue some hours, word was sent out and watch kept for the missing hydroplane. Uleric Verreault found the wings at Sandy Bay.

Planes Make Saving Of Six Days in Mail Service From Europe

BUENOS AIRES, Oct. 20.—For the first time in their history residents of the Argentine capital today were able to read letters and newspapers ten days after they were mailed in Europe, a saving of from six to nine days over the usual time, as a result of the 6,000-mile cruise of two French mailers from Paris to Buenos Aires.

Dieudonne Costes and Lieutenant Joseph Lebrun, who left the French capital on October 10, arrived in Buenos Aires today with the first regular mail across the South Atlantic. The aviators set two records. They made the entire flight in the shortest time so far, and also were the first to fly across the South Atlantic without a stop.

Canada's Two Most Eminent Bachelors

With Hon. Richard Bedford Bennett (left) now leading the Conservative party and Right Hon. William Lyon Mackenzie King (right) the Liberal Government, Dan Cupid may combine his artistry with that of the political sharpshooters at Ottawa next Spring. Both Mr. Bennett and Mr. King are unmarried, and are viewed as two of "Canada's most eligible bachelors," particularly as Mr. Bennett possesses a fortune that runs into several millions.

PETITION WILL BE PRESENTED

Ex-Notaries Public in B.C. to Approach Government Seeking Further Opportunities to Enroll

DECISION REACHED AT MEETING HERE

Presentation to the Provincial Government of a petition, signed by ex-notaries public, British Columbia, asking that legislation be introduced at the next session of the Legislature giving such ex-notaries public a further opportunity to enroll and thus have their commissions restored, will take place shortly, as a result of a decision reached here yesterday by the Victoria ex-notaries public, who under the amendments to the act governing the office, find themselves now off the list.

The meeting of ex-notaries public was held in the office of Mr. H. T. Barnes, Rithet Consolidated Limited, Wharf Street. Mr. Hubert Lethaby, who is a director of the Society of Notaries Public of British Columbia, and who did enroll in accordance with the act, was asked to act on behalf of the ex-notaries public.

The six notaries retained provided to communicate with all the Vancouver Island ex-notaries public, that is, with all those who did not enroll in the previous period, which ended on September 7, 1927, and ask them to place their signatures to the petition. The petition will be presented and placed before the Government.

Also he was requested to get in touch with the committee of ex-notaries public in Vancouver and other Mainland centres, who are acting along similar lines in the matter.

In the meantime, of course, if the ex-notaries public use their seals, they will be subject to heavy penalties, as set out in the terms of the Notaries Public Act which was passed by the Provincial Legislature at its last session.

PROVISIONS OF ACT

Under the amendments introduced by the Government, provision was made for the holding of examinations for all who might apply to be enrolled as notaries public. Provision was also made that existing holders of the office might have their names retained provided they made application for such a course in six months within the date of the passing of the act.

The six month probation period passed, and quite a number of notaries public failed to enroll, the result being that they were all struck off the list. In this connection, a number of officials of the Government who require to hold such offices in connection with the discharge of their duties, were struck off the lists to the inconvenience of themselves and the public.

Trophy to Be Awarded For Service in Aiding Aviation in Canada

OTTAWA, Oct. 20.—The Department of National Defence will give consideration to the award of the trophy presented by the late J. Dalziel McKee, of Philadelphia, for "Meritorious services in advancing aviation in Canada," at the close of the 1927 flying season, when the award for the current year will be made. The trophy was donated just prior to the death of Mr. McKee, who was killed in the early Spring when his plane crashed on a lake in the Laurentine mountains. He was a native of the United States, but had taken a lively interest in Canadian aviation.

The trophy is not competitive, but will be awarded to the individual whose defence department considers has contributed most during the year toward the development of flying. It is understood that members of the Royal Air Force may not be eligible.

First Work on Grain Elevator To Start Soon

PRELIMINARY work on the Panama Pacific Grain Terminals, Ltd. elevator will start soon. The freight shed on Pier 3, Ogden Point docks, will be removed and excavation made for the 1,000,000-bushel structure. Tracks also will be laid to the dock.

Mr. C. D. Howe, of C. D. Howe & Co., engineers for the city on the grain elevator plans, held a conference with Mayor J. C. Pendray yesterday, during which all difficulties over commencement of construction within the ninety-day limit were removed. The preliminary construction work will be done out of Panama Pacific funds.

TRIAL IN PARIS STIRS AUDIENCE

SPECTATORS APPARENTLY UNABLE TO CONTROL THEIR DEMONSTRATIONS

Story of Revenge for Pogroms Told by Petura's Assassins Alleged to Be Untrue

PARIS, Oct. 20.—Excited murmurs punctuated by frequent volleys of passionate, protesting remarks from the spectators who packed the benches at the third sitting of the trial of Samuel Schwartzbard for the murder of General Simon Petura.

Despite Justice Pury's banging gavel and demands for silence, spectators apparently were unable to control themselves, and the attendants were forced to threaten violence before the crowd got a grip on its emotions.

DUEL OF WORDS

Today's session was by far the most tense thus far in the running of the trial. The trial was presided over by the chief of the defence counsel, and Caesar Campinchi, representing Petura's family. The duel of words rained in vocal power and acrimony as the two black-robed lawyers stood a few feet apart roaring at the top of their lungs. Schwartzbard alone among the actors in the court drama remained silent. Even at the moment when he commented on the accusation of a former friend, his attitude was more one of resignation than of defiance.

Swartzbard's lawyer, Schwartzbard, claimed to have killed Petura in reprisal for Jewish pogroms, but the deposition alleges that Schwartzbard was a member of a secret committee to kill Petura in order to prevent his possible return to power in the Ukraine.

German Army Nearly Won Says Mr. Lloyd George

LONDON, Oct. 20.—The allied powers came much nearer to defeat in the Great War than most people realize, declared Mr. David Lloyd George, war-time Prime Minister, in unveiling a statue called "La Deliverance," in Fitchley today.

Enlarging upon the theme of the symbol, he was eloquently, Mr. Lloyd George continued, "I would ask you to exercise your imagination and conceive what would have happened in Europe if military despotism had triumphed. It is not probable an operation will be necessary."

MR. PINERO ILL

LONDON, Oct. 20.—Mr. Arthur Wing Pinero, British dramatist, has gone to a nursing home suffering from an internal malady. It is probable an operation will be necessary.

OAK BAY FOLKS OPPOSE GARAGE

Beach Drive Residents Claim Structure Will Result in Traffic and Noise Along Popular Roadway

PROPERTY AGENTS ASK LARGER SIGNS

Captain William C. Merston, who is building the Beach Hotel at Oak Bay, is meeting with considerable opposition from residents who have signed a petition urging that he be not permitted to erect a garage to accommodate twenty cars in the vicinity of the hotel. Nearly twenty of the petitioners appeared before the Oak Bay Council yesterday to air their views on the matter.

The petitioners were under the impression that the garage would be also a service station for gasoline and oil. Captain Merston denied the charge, stating that the garage would be used for the storage of automobiles. He estimated that a piece of property with a sixty-foot frontage and 150 feet deep would be required to house twenty cars. The only piece of available ground, he said, was a hotel property situated behind the building, where it would be exposed to heavy seas in the winter.

RESIDENTS' OBJECTION
Reeve Herbert Anson pointed out that a piece of property on Herick Street, at the western boundary of the Merston property, measuring twenty by eighty feet, could be leveled off for the proposed garage site. This, however, did not meet with the favor of the residents who emphatically stated that a hotel garage would cause a certain amount of noise and night, would cause a traffic nuisance and would impede travel on one of the most frequented highways of Victoria. They also reminded the Reeve that he should respect the rights of property owners of the neighborhood.

WRECKED CANOE FOUND IN RIVER

Further Relics Found of Dawson Physician's Party, Indicating Drowning Tragedy

DAWSON, Oct. 20.—Further evidence that Dr. Lachapelle, Mrs. Bessie Ray of Keno City and John Timson lost their lives in the Yukon River, was brought here today by Corporal Cronkite and Constable Purdie of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, who arrived in a small boat from McGillivray, where they found the canoe of the missing party on Reindeer Island. It had been torn from stem to stern and covered with half a foot of ice. A black hat, thought to have belonged to Timson, was found on the beach in McGillivray. The food box of Dr. Lachapelle was located in the water near Indian River. The physician's dog, which accompanied the party when it left Stewart on October 3, was found on Tuesday two miles from that place in an exhausted condition. It is believed that the tragedy occurred about two hours after the party's departure from Stewart, and that the canoe was carried down the river by heavy slush ice.

Austrian Prince Dies

Trail Physician Replies Sharply To Dr. Young

NELSON, Oct. 20.—That the charge of Dr. H. E. Young, made in Vancouver yesterday, that Trail patients convalescent from infantile paralysis had refused to supply the provincial bacteriologists with blood serum for use in preventing outbreaks of the disease, was utterly baseless and a cruel return to a young girl who had, in fact, supplied blood for serum uses for cases in Rosland and Nelson. Dr. Young, speaking for the physicians who compose the Trail-Rosland clinic, "So far as I am aware, and I usually open the mail for the clinic, no application for assistance of this kind has ever been made."

EXPORT CLAUSE NOT AGREED TO

U.S. Delegate Would Strike Out Words "To Protect Vital Economic and Financial Interests"

COMMITTEE ASKED FOR ELABORATION

GENEVA, Oct. 20.—The crucial stage of the international conference for the abolition of restrictions on imports and exports was reached today. Every country wants prohibitions removed in principle, but when it comes to practice it was evident from discussion that restrictions to be permitted by the convention may be so numerous that the document runs the risk of not meeting the requirements.

The German, French and American delegates led the fight to produce what they called a "worthwhile" treaty. The struggle chiefly turned on Article V of the draft convention, which expresses the intention to impose restrictions to meet extraordinary circumstances and to "protect vital economic and financial interests." Hugh R. Wilson, an American delegate and member of the League of Nations, later to Switzerland, moved to strike out the phrase related to "economic and financial interests," and to substitute the expression, "in case of war or national calamity." Arguing that the original text was so broad that it might nullify the convention, Mr. Wilson favored reducing the exceptions in the convention to a necessary minimum, but thought that the exceptions should be clearly defined in order that the nations may know what they are signing.

COMPROMISE EXPECTED

The question involved will go to committee for elaboration and the new text will doubtless be a compromise. A feature of the day was the comment of M. Serruys, of France, of the speech of a British delegate that the present situation concerning prohibitions on trade is satisfactory. M. Serruys remarked, "I think they are intolerable. We must move forward, just as Europe is advancing in economic rehabilitation."

The developments of the conference indicate that various countries wish to obtain the removal of prohibitions on products of other particular countries. Thus Germany is eager to obtain relaxation of England's prohibitions on the importation of German goods. The British delegate said that England places these prohibitions on the importation of coloring ingredients because it is a matter of vital importance to the chemical industry protected is essential to national defense.

This was interpreted by the delegates to mean that England wants to protect her own dyestuff factories because they can be transformed into factories of a different type in war times. The discussion also indicated that various countries are imposing prohibitions because other countries are doing the same. An attempt is being made as some of the delegates put it, to break this "vicious circle," which, they seem convinced, impedes world economic restoration.

SEATTLE AUDIENCE APPLAUDS REFERENCE TO GOOD RELATIONS

SEATTLE, Oct. 20.—Forced to change its programme at the last minute because of inability of distinguished Canadian speakers to arrive in Vancouver, to accept speaking engagements, the Seattle Peace Society, at its annual goodwill banquet tonight, commemorated the signing of the peace pact between Canada and the United States 109 years ago, with a programme of all American speakers.

Congressman John F. Miller received the plaudits of the audience during a brief talk, in which he sketched an outline of Canadian relations during the past century, and expressed the conviction that notwithstanding the efforts of "trouble makers on each side of the boundary," American relations would continue forever. The people of Canada and the United States, he asserted have contrived the contention of scientific historians, who contend that arbitrary boundaries are the most fertile causes of war.

King Feared of Iraq Is Guest of Britain

LONDON, Oct. 21.—King Feisal of Iraq arrived in London tonight for a visit of several weeks as a guest of the Government. It is reported that King Feisal hopes to discuss with the Government possibility of Iraq entering the League of Nations.

DEMAND MADE FROM VATICAN NOT GRANTED

Proposal for Creation of Independent Church State Is Completely Rejected by Fascists

REPLY POSTPONES CONCORD DESIRED

Fascist Organ Declares That Settlement of Question Is Not Matter of Immediate Urgency

ROME, Oct. 20.—The complete rejection in behalf of the Italian Government of the fundamental conditions laid down by the Vatican for solution of the half-century-old Roman question, has caused considerable surprise and disappointment in quarters which considered the problem existing between Church and State in Italy as practically solved.

The question was brought to the fore last week when Osservatore Romano, the official Vatican organ, proposed the creation of an independent church state. The proposal today was described as "outside of discussion" by Foglio D'Orindi, the official Fascist organ.

NOT INTERNATIONAL

The Foglio D'Orindi stressed the fact that as the Vatican itself declared through the Osservatore Romano, the Roman question is not of international character, but merely to be regulated between the Holy See and the Italian State. It also says that the Osservatore admitted that the question of real territorial character, "For Fascist Italy is and will be outside of any discussion of the re-establishment of temporal power, even in a very remote form."

HARD, NOT IMPOSSIBLE

The Foglio D'Orindi declares that the fall of the Catholic Church from temporal power in 1870 brought it "immense advantage and prestige." The Fascist organ advises Fascists not to take the ground that the question is easy, either easy or impossible to solve.

By its own statement, reiterated by Osservatore, that the Holy See is not in any great hurry for a solution, The Foglio takes the same ground, saying that the Fascist regime has fully 100 years in which to come to a settlement, thus indicating that the Fascist party expects to remain in power for at least a century.

AIR MAIL REPORT IS CONTRADICTED

Ottawa and Washington Dispatches Differ as to Newfoundland and Montreal Plans

OTTAWA, Oct. 20. A Montreal-New York air mail service has been proposed by the United States Postoffice Department, it was learned here today. While the Canadian Postoffice Department has done nothing yet, the matter has become a subject of negotiations which may lead to a daily service between the two cities by which incoming mails from Montreal would be delivered in New York City late the same afternoon.

The United States is also reaching out to Newfoundland with its air mail service, according to a press report today.

ST. LAWRENCE RIVER

The Summer and Autumn experiments with air mail service from Father Point to Quebec City have been almost concluded, and the Federal Department regards the results as quite satisfactory. The experimental flights so far have been carried on by seaplanes operated by private companies. With the coming of the stormier weather the Royal Canadian Air Force will carry out some investigation work with the land planes in connection with the Father Point-Quebec route. The Summer of 1928 will undoubtedly find the Postoffice Department operating some sort of regular service on the St. Lawrence River, it is stated here by officials.

GRAIN FLOWS TO VANCOUVER

Amount of Cargo Space Available Is Only Limit to Flow, Says Mr. Cotterell — Movement Well Begun

FARMERS HAULING AT RECORD RATE

"Vancouver will no doubt receive all the grain that there are ships to handle, as there is already a steady movement of the golden wheat to the Coast," announced Mr. C. A. Cotterell, general superintendent of the British Columbia District of the Canadian Pacific Railway, on his arrival back last night from Eastern Canada and the Eastern United States.

"It is a magnificent sight," said Mr. Cotterell, "to see the miles of grain and hundreds of teams hauling grain to the country elevators on the Prairies. The weather has cleared and a delightful Indian Summer prevailing with threshing and ploughing again general. With a continuance of this fine weather it certainly will not take long to overcome the delay in harvesting that was caused by the wet weather."

WINNIPEG, Oct. 20.—The twenty-four hours ending at midnight established a record in grain marketing, with 3,876,781 bushels hauled to elevators on Canadian Pacific lines.

This amount equals the total production of Western Canada during the entire crop year of 1927, forty years ago. This record also is sufficient in quantity of bushels marketed to provide bread for the entire population of the British Isles for approximately one week. Loaded into box cars this grain would require a train over twenty miles in length, and twenty of the largest grain boats on the Great Lakes would be required to carry it.

Further, on a basis of 100 bushels to a farmer's wagon of three tons, approximately 38,000 farmers' wagons arrived at Canadian Pacific stations at country points yesterday with sufficient grain to fill to the roof 127 country elevators.

Basing the result on a ten-hour working day, approximately 100 bushels of grain were marketed in the Canadian Pacific every second during the entire working day.

C.N.R. RECORDS

WINNIPEG, Oct. 20.—That the glorious weather Western Canada has been enjoying for some days past has been having its effect in the harvest fields is demonstrated by the grain movement figures given out today by the car department of the Canadian National Railways.

The largest number of cars loaded on the Canadian National lines this season were loaded yesterday. There were 120 cars, representing 1,626,000 bushels. Grain marketed totaled 2,538,000 bushels. Nearly 5,000 cars were in transit to the Lakehead, 4,000 had arrived and 574 had been unloaded. Eight boats, carrying 2,734,000 bushels were cleared, twenty-two were loading and ten were due to arrive. More than 8,000 bushels of grain are reported in storage in the country elevators, an increase of 912,000 bushels, and Vancouver has a million and a half bushels.

HERITAGE OF CANADA HAS EXPRESSION

ada had taken in the spiritual side of his experience in the west, when the peoples of the various nations there had paid most glowing compliments to the worth of the Dominion.

"We can look the whole world in the face," he said, "and without disparagement of any other nation and with no shamefacedness and say 'I am a Canadian, a citizen of no mean country.'"

Professor E. S. Parr, in responding to the toast, recalled the fact that it was sixty-three years ago just about this time of the year that the Fathers of Confederation had been in session and had drawn up the seventy-two resolutions upon which the Confederation was formed. British laws and British freedom had been insured in those resolutions.

The hope of Canada, he said, lay in immigration. Canada had continued to be cosmopolitan. It would have to continue to be so. In formation of the Canadian nation, the battlefields, he pointed out, was on the frontiers of the country where the immigrants from foreign nations were being assimilated with the people of this land. "These new citizens were taking their places in the formation of the nation, some of them in the first generation. In this connection he recalled incidents which had come under his own eye with the Canadian nationality and the pride with which many of these people were doing their share nobly.

THE CITY MEMBER

Dwelling upon the great asset that Canada had in this great province of British Columbia, which was the place of his birth, Hon. S. F. Tolmie referred to the opinions that were held by statesmen and by periodicals with respect to British Columbia when this province entered into the Dominion in 1871. It was then held that the province would never pay its way, and would be of little or no use.

Time had proved that in taking over the province as a part of the Dominion there had been no assuming of liabilities. On the contrary the province had proved one of the greatest assets to the country.

He reviewed the record of the past year in the production of various kinds in British Columbia to show that in a country that boasted only a little over half a million people there was a very worthy position shown. This would be increased and the future was exceedingly bright for the province.

Dr. Tolmie agreed that well-selected and careful immigration was a matter of the greatest importance to Canada. He would do an immense amount for the country. Until a settler was well established in the country, and satisfied, he was not an asset to the country. The bringing in of new settlers would provide new

ARTURO GARCIA-FERRENTI
A nineteen-year-old student of the National University of Mexico, who on Friday at Vancouver, representing Mexico, carried off first honors on the international oratorical competition. He was a "Latin-Americanism and Pan-Americanism" essayist. The five contestants, representing England, Canada, United States, France and Mexico, were all secondary school students. First Nations of Canada won third prize.

There must be a common bond, working for a common purpose, that of a united Canada. Loyalty must be the predominant principle.

Mr. Wm. Ivel replied to the toast setting out that the organization was nonsectarian and nonpolitical. It had been laid down at the very beginning of the organization that it adhered to the principle of Canada remaining connected with the British Commonwealth of Nations. It was also set out that Canada should have control of industrial and internal affairs.

CANADIAN NATIONALITY

Mr. Ivel hoped to see attention given to the matter of establishing a Canadian nationality. If foreigners were to be brought here to settle, it was necessary, he believed, that they should be taught to recognize that there was a Canadian nationality if they were to respect us. The time for this recognition, he believed, could not come too quickly for this to be brought about.

A toast to the Press, proposed by Mr. Robert Hunt, followed by the singing of "God Save the King," concluded the programme.

During the evening the orchestra of the Native Sons gave selections. Mrs. J. McNeill contributed a number of songs during the progress of the programme.

An interesting feature of the evening was the introduction of Mr. and Mrs. L. Barton, of Vancouver, who were in the city on their honeymoon, and who attended the gathering as members of the Vancouver branches of the organization.

On opening the banquet, Mr. Hugh Grellman, the president of the local assembly, No. 1, read a message of regret from the Lieutenant-Governor of the province for being unable to be present at the gathering.

OLMSTED TRIAL DEFENCE BEGINS

Prosecution Evidence Concluded—Captain Dodge Makes Emphatic Denial

SEATTLE, Oct. 20.—Without delaying further into testimony that Captain Frederick G. Dodge, former coastguard commandant in the Northern district, had no knowledge of protection to rum-runners, the Government today rested its case in the trial of forty alleged members of the Olmsted gang.

Dodge, transferred last Fall to the Southern Pacific coastguard district and since retired, emphatically denied the charges in a statement issued from San Francisco. He added that organization of his Pacific Northwest forces would have made such protection impossible.

Dodge's name was dragged into the case by Alfred M. Hubbard, suspended Federal liquor agent, but a key witness in the present liquor trial in Supreme Court here. Hubbard admitted that no money had been paid Dodge, but declared the coastguard commandant had promised to "keep the coastguard out of the way of liquor runners."

A suggestion that the hotel garage be erected on vacant property near the public garage on Windsor Road was opposed, residents of the neighborhood feeling that it would spoil the view and constitute an eyesore to every passer-by.

"We still have to find the money to lead us out of the burliness," he thought it would be a tragedy to have a garage on the beach Drive, and that the only logical place for the building would be on part of the sea front at the rear of the hotel.

Captain Merston told of being offered property at the corner of Deal and Margate Streets, and said that so far violent objections were raised to every tentative plan. The Oak Bay Council will further consider the matter before granting a building permit.

Representatives of the Real Estate Board of Victoria and Pemberton & Son appeared before the council in regard to the sign by-law recently passed, which limits the size of real estate signs to one and one-half square feet in area.

The real estate men pointed out that standard signs were a little larger than those allowed by the by-law, and that subdivision signs should be made larger still. In asking for an amendment to the by-law they argued that the necessary signs, which are made in the East in standard sizes, did not include the new size specified by the council. Reeve Goscomb said the council could not immediately change a by-law that had been several months under consideration and that any changes would not be fair to those who had already altered their real estate signs. It was agreed to let the by-law stand with no amendment.

CEMETERY QUESTION

Upon receipt of oral advice, the council found that they had the power to stop further burials in the Chinese Cemetery, situated in Poul Bay district south of Gonzales Hill. The land has been held by the Chinese Benevolent Society for over thirty years. Numerous complaints have been received from residents whose property is adjacent to the burial ground, and the council will take the matter up with the Chinese Benevolent Society with a view to closing the cemetery at some future date.

Draining work will start at once at Windsor Recreation Park, situated at the end of the Oak Bay car line. Lines of tiles in present use were found to be blocked up, causing a considerable amount of water to collect on the popular sporting grounds.

By-law 492, setting aside part of the summit of Gonzales Hill as a park in its natural state, was passed by the council. The area has been named Walbran Park, in honor of the late Captain Walbran, British Columbia pioneer and commander for a number of years of the steamer Quisira.

The council decided that a sidewalk could not be constructed on Todd Road because of the width limitation. The municipal engineer

CONTROVERSY ACTIVE

LONDON, Oct. 20.—The religious controversy continues to rage around the Bishop of Birmingham's letter to the Archbishop of Canterbury. Bishop Barnes, in his letter, declared the doctrine of transubstantiation untrue and ranged himself on the side of those theologians who consider that the Biblical account of creation is to be taken as poetry and not as a literal record.

In certain Anglo-Catholic circles, says the Westminster Gazette, it has been suggested that Bishop Barnes should be prosecuted for heresy, but the bishops are not likely to adopt such a procedure, which has been in disuse for over two centuries.

The Archbishop of Canterbury's secretary informed the Gazette that the Archbishop had seen the Bishop's letter but had no comment to make on it. It is impossible to say whether any reply the Archbishop might make would be public or private.

NO SIMILAR CASE

It is pointed out that the Bishop of Birmingham has created a precedent which places the Archbishop of Canterbury in a difficult position, because throughout the history of the Church of England there is no record of a bishop having addressed a letter to the head of the church on a doctrinal question, especially such a controversial doctrine as transubstantiation.

The Westminster Gazette adds that Bishop Barnes has placed himself in a position of jeopardy because his opponents may petition the Archbishop on matters contained in his letter, and it would be the Archbishop's duty to act on it.

The rector of Birmingham, Canon Guy Rogers, preaching today from the same pulpit from which the Bishop of Birmingham recently delivered his controversial sermon, declared that the Christian faith would be exposed to serious shocks in the near future than ever in the past. He believed that the Bishop of Birmingham was like the captain of a ship who was clearing his ship of action and throwing overboard what he deemed cumbersome or worthless.

Deaf worshippers in a Pulham church are now supplied with earphones so that they can hear and join in the services by means of a microphone.

Battle of Trafalgar, Oct. 21, 1805

Review of Preparations for Defeat of France and Spain
Off Cape Trafalgar

By MAJOR F. V. LONGSTAFF

The favorite theme at celebrations of Trafalgar anniversaries is the famous signal of Nelson to the officers and men under his command. This signal was but the culminating act of the many years of wonderful training given by Nelson to the captains and ships' companies under his command. The flag making up Nelson's Trafalgar signal was first displayed in the Victory on the anniversary of the victory 1899. The revised code of flags were first used in 1908.

In these times of swift progress, though civilization has become more complicated, victory is still largely a question of proper organization and due preparation. Therefore it is good to glance at the period of time devoted by Nelson and his captains to the preparation for putting a limit to Napoleon's power which took place at Trafalgar and his overthrow, which was completed at Waterloo.

TRIBUTE FROM MAHAN

The late Admiral A. T. Mahan, of the U.S. Navy, says in one of his books published in 1889: "For instance, how many look upon the Battle of Trafalgar, the crowning of Nelson's glory and the seal of his genius, as other than an isolated event of exceptional grandeur? How many ask themselves the strategic question, 'How did the ships come to be just there?' How many realize it to be the final act in a great strategic drama, extending over a year or more, in which two of the greatest leaders that ever lived, Napoleon and Nelson, were pitted against each other? At Trafalgar, but no Napoleon that failed, but Napoleon that was vanquished; not Nelson that won, but England that was saved. And why? Because Napoleon's combinations failed, and Nelson's intuitions and activity kept the English fleet ever on the track of the enemy, and brought it up in time at the decisive moment. The tactics at Trafalgar, while open to criticism in detail, were in their main features conformable to the principles of war, and their audacity was justified as well by the urgency of the case as by the results; but the great lessons of efficiency in preparation, of activity in execution, and of thought and insight on the part of the English leader during the previous months, are strategic lessons, and as such they still remain good."

About forty years after Trafalgar, a French naval officer of great repute, Captain E. Jurien de la Graviere, contributed papers entitled "Sketches of the Last Naval War" to the Revue des Deux Mondes. In 1848 these sketches were translated into English by Captain the Honorable Edward Plunket, R.N. The French captain says: "The English did not owe their triumph to the number of their ships, to the greatness of their population, to administrative wisdom, nor the wise combinations of the Admiralty. The English beat us because their crews were better trained and their squadrons better disciplined than ours. Their superiority was the fruit of some years' cruising, and was the work alone possessed that science of command, energetic without harshness, persuasive without feebleness, which was far more to be feared than authority. The idol of his seamen, he possessed in an equal degree the affection, more difficult to attain, of his officers. But he was not satisfied that such sentiment should be felt merely for his own person. He wished (a wise and great policy) that mutual esteem and devotion should pervade the whole fleet and influence men destined to combat together.

MIDDLE deck of H.M.S. Victory (looking forward on port side). At the time of Trafalgar her lower deck guns were thirty three-pounders, middle deck guns were twenty-eight twenty-four-pounders, and her upper deck guns thirty twelve-pounders. It has not been possible to trace what armament was carried above the upper deck. The photograph was probably taken about 1860. At Trafalgar the space between the gun tacks, and hundreds of round iron shot weighing twenty-four pounds each were in the shot racks alongside the hatch coamings. The ship's side was painted red at that time for obvious reasons.

In the Bay of Naples, on the shores of the Baltic, before Toulon as before Cadiz, in the midst of the most pressing occupations and important events, he could find time to interpose in the slightest quarrels, and prevent the animosity ready to break out. It is, above all, upon seeing this illustration, man condescend to this task of conciliation, and stoop to these humble officers that we can best comprehend the salutary influence which a beloved chief can exercise over those he commands. Far from entrenching himself from a mistaken idea of dignity in inaccessible forms, Nelson, on the contrary, mixed himself up with the daily life of all on board, becoming its very centre, and winning all hearts and wills to himself, directed them to one object, the annihilation of our (the French) fleets."

"There is no excuse for the man who deliberately goes out and shoots game out of season without a firearms licence," stated Magistrate George Jay, in Provincial Court this week, in dealing with offenders under the Provincial Game Act. Staff-Sergeant Butler prosecuted John Hill, of Sidney, for carrying firearms without a licence, and His Honor fined Hill $10. Kakuno, a Cordova Bay Japanese, paid the court $10 for the same offence. J. S. of Jervis and of Nelson. It is the secret mechanism of that silent and gradual work which we must investigate, for we must study Nelson organizing his fleet ere we can understand him fighting with such successful rashness; we must examine the means before we can comprehend the end.

A GREAT TRAINING

"What was Nelson before the Battle of the Nile? The favorite scholar, the associate of Jervis, the associate of Jervis, the enthusiastic admirer of the great Earl who first introduced into the British Navy that firm discipline, that regulated zeal, which we may envy even in the present day. Nelson learned from Jervis at that time to preserve his crews in health without going into port, to keep his ships at sea for years, and to prefer the exercise of the great guns and practical seamanship before any frill and trim. The happy temperament with which nature had endowed him proved of further advantage, and he transformed a disciplined force into a 'band of brothers.' Nelson and Collingwood

VANCOUVER, Oct. 20.—Can a deaf and dumb man operate an automobile with safety to himself and the public?

This question was raised in civic and police committee yesterday by Alderman E. W. Dean, who asked the aldermen to endorse his proposal to ask the Government to test all motor drivers for competency to drive a car before issuing a licence. Chief of Police H. W. Long reported that he had recently taken a licence away from a deaf and dumb man only to bring down a storm of protest from the deaf society, who held that with nothing to distract his attention, a deaf and dumb man could operate a car with greater safety than a normal person.

BUREAU SLANDER ACTION BEGINS

Evidence Begins in Suit of Former Customs Minister Against Member of Commons

HUMBOLDT, Sask., Oct. 20.—With the jury addressed by plaintiff's counsel, R. Tingley, K.C., Regina, followed by evidence of the first witness, the slander action of the Hon. Jacques Bureau, former Federal Minister of Customs, against Milton N. Campbell, M.P., and W. J. B. Smith, commenced in the Court of the King's Bench here today. Mr. Justice George E. Taylor is presiding. The action arises out of alleged statements made at a political meeting held at Quill Lake, about sixty miles out of Humboldt during the Federal election campaign of 1926, just prior to the election of M. N. Campbell, as a member of MacKenzie constituency. At the same meeting William Jethrow Blackstock Smith, of Invermay, is alleged by the plaintiff to have made slanderous allegations concerning the Minister of Customs.

The meeting was held on August 30, 1926. The first witness called was Arthur Pelletier, Quill Lake. He described himself as a shorthand writer and bookkeeper. He said he took notes of Mr. Smith's address wherein Smith stated that "A Minister of the Crown did allow within the sacred precincts of the House of Commons a member of ill-fame for the use of members so he could compromise and be able to say 'you come to us'."

Magistrate—"I see no reason why I should let you off prison after beating your wife like this."

Blacksmith's Crop

LEADER, Sask., Oct. 20.—F. Leiper, leader blacksmith, bought a 200-acre crop which had been damaged by wind and hail, at $5 per acre. After paying for having the crop harvested and threshed and for other expenses, he still realized a clear profit of $5,200.

Appeal Case to Washington, Alleging High-Handed Treatment From Officials

HONOLULU, Oct. 20.—Immigration authorities here are detaining under bonds Norman Cohen and Miss Thelma Levy, Sydney, N.S.W., who were passengers on the Ss. Niagara, which visited this port October 7, en route to Vancouver. They lingered ashore too long and were left behind.

When Cohen and Miss Levy applied next day for permission to travel to their destination, Vancouver, B. C., via San Francisco, they were arrested. Appeals have been taken to Washington.

Alleging high-handed treatment by immigration officials, Cohen asserted that Alfred Burnett, the district immigration director, had placed the "worst possible complexion" on the facts in their cases.

CLAIMS PROSPERITY DUE TO GOVERNMENT

Some Credit Given to People's Initiative by Speaker at Saanich Liberal Party

The first-of-the-season card party and dance of the Saanich Liberal Club was held in the hall of the Burnside Bowling Club with an attendance of a hundred. Prizes were won by Mrs. Bying, Mrs. Rodell, Mrs. Leggett (consolation), and by Mr. J. Smart, Mr. J. Waterston and Mr. W. Washington (consolation). Mrs. Foster won the tombola prize. President Arnpur made an efficient master of ceremonies and thanks are due Misses Arnpur, Pass and Foster for providing dancing music, and the ladies' committee for refreshments.

Mr. H. W. Whitaker presented the prizes to the successful competitors, and in the course of his remarks claimed that the province had greatly increased in prosperity during the ten years of Liberal administration, from 1916 to 1926. He stated that the total production from the basic industries of the province in the year 1926 was approximately $126,180,000 more than in the year 1916.

Mr. Whitaker said that a large part of the increased production was due to the initiative and energy of the people of the province, but was of the opinion that it was equally true that the businesslike methods and efficiency of the Liberal Government during the period in question was in a great measure responsible.

Wife Discovers Husband Has Wooden Leg to Use

CHICAGO, Oct. 20.—It was not until after several months of married life that Mrs. Clarence Johnson discovered her husband had a wooden leg, when he took it off to beat her with, she testified in obtaining a divorce today.

"Why, I never dreamed he had a wooden leg, but when he went no far as to take it off and beat me with it, I couldn't help but notice it," she told the judge.

"You see I first met him at a ball and it was his divine dancing that led to our hasty marriage shortly afterward."

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 20.—The newspaper El Sol says that six bodies of bandits captured and executed by Federal troops, after an attack on the Laredo-to-Mexico City passenger train south of San Luis Potosi, Tuesday morning, have been suspended from trees in villages near San Luis Potosi, as a warning.

The newspaper says the bandits got 3,000 pesos from an express car in the attack, in which a woman passenger was killed and twelve passengers were seriously injured when the bandits exploded a dynamite bomb under a second class coach.

Rotarians to Hold Carnival

CLUBMEN WILL STAGE GRAND ICE FESTIVAL IN NOVEMBER AT ARENA

Finest Skating Talent in North America Taking Part—Rev. Montague Bruce Tells of Progress

A grand ice carnival at the Willows Arena will be staged in mid-November under the auspices of the Victoria Rotary Club, members of the Rotary organization were advised yesterday at their weekly luncheon session in the Empress Hotel ballroom.

Rotarian James H. Beatty and other members of a special committee outlined the proposal to the membership, and the idea was heartily endorsed. It is anticipated that some of the finest skating and amusement talent in North America will be seen in action at the pond festival.

Artists from Winnipeg and Minneapolis will be brought by the Vancouver Rotary Club to take part in its big carnival at the Terminal City on November 18, and these entertainers can be obtained for the local carnival at small expense, it was pointed out by speakers.

A splendid review of the progress achieved by Saanich Municipality during the past seven years was given by Rev. Montague Bruce, president of the Saanich Board of Trade. He claimed that provision of water for irrigation would be of inestimable value to the peninsula, and estimated the cost at $1,000,000.

"The attainment of irrigation will be small until a great number of people who have only wishbones exchange them for backbones," declared Rev. Mr. Bruce.

Enjoyable vocal solos were rendered by Mrs. Archie Willis. The artist was accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Matthews.

Rotarians will today attend the funeral of the late Mrs. H. Anderson, Mr. Anderson being an honorary member of the Rotary Club.

Railway Pass Is Treasured

AN interesting incident is recounted by the recent celebration in honor of the memory of Chief Crow Foot, whose wisdom and foresightedness was largely responsible for the signing of the famous Treaty Number 7, which threw open a new empire in the West for settlement.

It was back in the '80's after the treaty with the Blackfeet Indians had been signed, and about the time the Canadian Pacific Railway was pushing its lines of steel into the West, Chief Crow Foot had become known to William Van Horne, then general manager of the Canadian Pacific, and as a token of the esteem held for the famous chief by the whites, he was presented with a perpetual pass over the railway company's lines. This pass became Crow Foot's most treasured possession and he exhibited it with pride among his tribesmen.

In some old records of the company is proof of the old chief's gratitude. A letter to Van Horne reads as follows:

"Great Chief of the Railway.

"I salute you, O Chief, O Great. I am pleased with railway key, opening the road free to me. The chains and rich covering of your name, its wonderful power to open the road, show the greatness of your Chiefness. I have done."

"His 'Crow X Foot' 'Mark.'"

"We must learn to get together as provinces and promote trade within our own limits," said the speaker.

"There has been altogether too much an acceptance of the conscious or unconscious mental attitude that believes Canada cannot do what is done in the United States. This is a psychological bent which is operating, whether we realize it or not, generally throughout the country, and it is very destructive to our own initiative."

"It is elemental to suggest that on the fish and fish products produced here on the coast, in exchange for our wheat products, such as stock and poultry feed. The coast could use Prairie butter in preference to that imported from Australia. All of that will occur to you at once. But we must go further and get down to the basic principles underlying interprovincial trade."

"The requisites may be stated as follows: Citizens must be made to appreciate that Nature intended British Columbia and the Prairie provinces to trade together, and fight together for the progress that is their destiny."

"Then there is the old question of railway or people first? Whether it is wise to build railways into the uninhabited or scattered districts to bring in people to develop those districts, or the people should be allowed to go miles and miles from the railways and create the demand for the road by their products and their industry."

"It is still a problem in fact if the railways should open up the country for the people, or if this development should take place the other way round."

The Prairies has given me an insight into how this has worked out."

"I am thoroughly confident that the Peace River deserves development on its merits and that the time is now opportune for a rail outlet to the Pacific Coast. As part of a great Canadian policy it would be wisdom to start immediately in the provision of that outlet."

The development of Pacific ports along and steady lines is also vital to us on the Prairies."

CO-ORDINATION OF TRADE URGED

Mayor Gregory, of North Battleford, Addresses the Delegates to Western Development Convention

PORT DEVELOPMENT STRESSED ON COAST

"A requisite is the study of our natural resources and their uses by means of national research bureaus. There should be a bureau in each province for the purpose of finding out what we have, and what uses we can put our resources to, developed on a general and definite plan of interprovincial co-operation," said Mayor J. A. Gregory, of North Battleford, in speaking to the Western Development and Unity League here yesterday morning on interprovincial trade.

"Canada has a national research council, and Alberta, I believe, is the only province with a provincial research council. There should be one in each province attached if need be to the universities."

"I would name the necessity for the development of the import trade via Pacific ports, to supply cargoes coming this way so that export grain shipments may be made at an advantageous rate. Canada has a big field for the development of trade in wheat and flour with the Orient. Before many years I believe the Pacific Coast will be the centre of the milling industry of Canada, if not of the world."

The history of Canada's development so far had shown that interprovincial trade had not been studied from the administrative standpoint, declared Mayor Gregory. The present Federal Government had initiated a change of policy which was tending in that direction. There had been special treatment for the Maritimes, in subsidies, bonuses, and freight adjustment, and a genuine attempt to get Alberta coal distributed in Ontario, but the policy had not yet all provinces.

MUST WORK TOGETHER

"We must learn to get together as provinces and promote trade within our own limits," said the speaker.

"There has been altogether too much an acceptance of the conscious or unconscious mental attitude that believes Canada cannot do what is done in the United States. This is a psychological bent which is operating, whether we realize it or not, generally throughout the country, and it is very destructive to our own initiative."

IF BACK HURTS BEGIN ON SALTS

Flush Your Kidneys Occasionally By Drinking Quarts Of Good Water

No man or woman can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Too much rich food creates acids which clog the kidney pores so that they sluggishly filter, strain only part of the waste and poisons from the blood. Then you get sick. Rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, constipation, dizziness, sleeplessness, bladder disorders often come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage, or attended by a sensation of scalding, begin to drink soft water in quantities; also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any reliable pharmacy and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine.

This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity, also to help neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer cause irritation, thus often relieving bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink, which everyone can take now and then to help keep the kidneys clean and the blood pure, thereby often preventing serious kidney complications.

wealth from the soil in vastly increasing acreage. Settlement is progressing satisfactorily, and there is going to be business in the West for all. It is only a question of time before there will be Prairie business for every Canadian port on this coast, but you must be careful to see that the cost of doing business with you and through you is not unreasonably high.

EXPORT GRAIN RATES

"The new export grain rate is satisfactory enough, but domestic rate demands attention. The export rate is 20 cents per 100 pounds from Edmonton to Prince Rupert, Victoria or Vancouver. The domestic rate varies from 41½ to 53 cents per 100 pounds in what was an attempt to approximate the charge to the mileage."

"The domestic grain rate is so high that it is practically made impossible for us on the Prairies to ship your stock and poultry dealers our low-grade grains for feed purposes."

MR. JOHN CLAY HEADS WARD 4

Well-Known Local Lawyer Elected Chairman of Conservative Organization—Mr. Huxtable Secretary

VICTORIA MEMBERS ASSAIL LIBERALS

Mr. John Clay, well-known local lawyer, was elected chairman of Ward Four Conservatives at the annual meeting held at the Campbell Building last night.

Mr. James E. Huxtable was re-elected secretary-treasurer, and the central executive was chosen as follows: Captain and Mrs. N. E. Fairweather, Mr. C. W. Hooper and Mr. Robert Huxtable.

Submitting his report for the past year, Mr. John Clay, the retiring chairman, pointed out that the party worked ceaselessly to improve the financial condition of the Conservative Association. He was glad to be able to report that the central executive was now clear of debt and that a substantial sum now reposed in the treasury. He expressed his thanks to Mr. Huxtable for the latter's untiring assistance in this work and pointed out that it was because of the improved finances that the Conservatives were able to maintain their splendid clubrooms.

In his report, the secretary-treasurer, Mr. Huxtable, thanked the members of Ward Four for the ready assistance they had proffered him in his work. He protested against the publication of an advertisement to Conservatives to line-up behind Hon. F. Tolmie in loyal support of the Conservative leader.

"I have never heard anyone say a word against Dr. Tolmie," Mr. Huxtable declared. "I want to say that we are all behind him. I think we are all friends of his."

"We know who our leader is," he added. "He was elected at Kamloops and it will be another convention to alter that selection."

Major Alan Lyons and Mr. Joshua Hinchcliffe, members of the Provincial House for Victoria, addressed the meeting.

After referring to the splendid character of the recent Conservative party convention at Winnipeg, Major Lyons turned to the political situation with the assertion that the people were eager to dethrone the Liberals and return to the good times they enjoyed when the late Sir Richard McBride was Premier of British Columbia.

He had read a statement that two billion dollars worth of the bonds representing Canada's national debt were in the hands of Canadians. He was willing to agree that this was a certain extent, was a good thing. But he could not help thinking that it would be better if more foreign money paid for the operating expenses of the country, and Canadians were to have the free capital with which to develop the natural resources of the Dominion.

Canadians had tied up so much capital in Government bonds that they had to let United States money exploit their natural resources.

SHIPPED OVER LINE
Unfortunately, Canadian raw products were shipped to American factories, where the real profit was made. In 1926 a million and a half cords of raw pulp wood were shipped into the United States, where their manufacturers paid the cost of $70,000,000, which cost $70,000,000 more. Exports of finished article represented the sum of $100,000,000. This would have kept 50,000 workers working eight hours a day, five days a week, at $1 an hour, for fifty weeks.

Canada. This would have netted $2,000,000 per year per man. Taking the average family as consisting of four persons, this would have provided for 200,000 people in the population of Canada had the raw product been manufactured in this country. Exports of raw asbestos, which cost $70,000,000 more, would have provided for 140,000 Canadians, using the same basis of calculation. Nickel would have provided for 200,000 more. Exports of copper and other raw materials, including raw logs and raw lumber, would have provided for another million Canadians. The Conservative policies had been adopted there would have been provision for an increase in population of 1,500,000.

Canadians were getting tired of seeing their neighbors to the south backing up their wagons and taking away the raw materials of the Dominion for a song.

Turning to the great value of the tourist industry, Major Lyons declared that one could not drive up the Island without being appalled at the manner in which the scenery, the magnet for the tourist, is being destroyed. The devastation along the road to Cowichan Lake reminded him of the devastation at Passchendaele during the war. It was not necessary to cut down the magnificent trees flanking the highway when there was so much equally good timber farther back, out of the range of vision of the tourist on the road. The country could not afford to destroy its scenic attractions, he declared.

When he had discussed this question of forest conservation with the Minister of Lands, Mr. Pattullo had maintained that the second growth timber was just as pretty, just as attractive, insulating the scenery at Shawnigan Lake, but the speaker could not agree with the minister. Major Lyons urged his hearers to prepare for an election in 1928 by organizing strongly. A prominent Liberal had told him recently that his party was not worrying about an election. He had told the speaker the Liberals felt sure of retaining their seats in the House and that they intended to concentrate their efforts on Victoria and the southern end of the Island, adding that they had lots of money with which to finance their campaign.

BY-ELECTION MENTIONED
Referring to the recent by-election, Mr. Hinchcliffe declared that Premier Maclean had said the Liberal Government would be in power for still another two years. It was with that plea that the Liberals had won at Nelson, the speaker maintained.

At the end of this measure, there was a remarkable section. It enacted that there should be no right of appeal against any assessment or levy of any surtax. But that was not the only time the Liberals had done away with the right of appeal. They had likewise taken away the Sumner farmers' right of appeal against the assessment on their lands.

In 1918 certain taxes under the Taxation Act had been increased. In the following year there had been further increases. In 1920 the Motor Vehicles Act had been devised and real estate agents were taxed for the first time. Extension duties were increased again next year. In 1922 taxes on insurance companies were raised and insurance companies were taxed for the first time. Next year the fuel oil and gasoline taxes had been imposed. In 1927 probate duties had been made to include real estate and the insurance duties on the wider range of goods now taxed. It had gone free of duty.

Next year the tax bill must be remembered, too. When Liberal boasts of reduced taxes were heard, that the Government now had the liquor profits in addition to the increased taxes and all the new duties. The Liberals were now taking four times as much from the province as the Conservatives did in 1916. His hearers should not merely look at one or two items in the tax bill when the Liberal cry of reduced taxes was heard; they should look at the total. Last year the tax bill was $18,000,000. This year it was being "reduced" to $19,300,000.

That is the way they are reducing taxes! Mr. Hinchcliffe said.

NAVY LEAGUE COUNCIL HIT

QUESTION OF CANADA'S PART IN EMPIRE DEFENCE RAISED AT MEETING HERE
Effort to Establish Subdivisions at Other Points on Island Is Urged

An implied criticism of the Dominion Council of the Navy League of Canada for its lack of action in formulating some plan for the part which Canada should take in the naval defence of the Empire, was one of the outstanding features of the annual meeting of the Vancouver Island division of the organization held last evening at the office of the president, Major W. H. Langley.

Another outstanding incident was the announcement by the president that Captain Morris, Dominion organizer, is to be here during December and January for the purpose of rallying interest in the work of the society and organizing branches throughout the Island.

Major Langley presided, and was re-elected to the presidency, other officers being vice-president, Major W. Layard, O.B.E., and secretary-treasurer, Mr. Jack Langley.

The meeting opened with routine business, reading of minutes, etc. The annual meeting of the organization followed by the president's annual address, in which were reviewed the activities of the Island division during the past year, and the prospects and plans for the future. The tour of the Victoria Sea Cadets Band through Canada and England has just touched upon; it was noted that sixty-two new members had been enrolled during the year between Nanaimo, Parksville and Alberni. The Victoria Sea Cadet Corps, "the mainstay of the organization here," was cited as having a strength of thirty-six of all ratings, "kept together under some adverse conditions by the loyal, faithful and efficient service of its present commanding officer, Lieut. P. W. Tribe." The corps during the year had sent sixty-two boys to sea, thirty of whom had been apprenticed and the remainder sent as deck boys, while it had also placed about thirty boys in shore occupations. Within the last few months one cadet had been apprenticed and another had taken out his second mate's papers. The whole Sea Cadet Corps of the Navy League had been thoroughly reorganized by and under the supervision of Admiral W. O. Story, C.B.E., and a complete set of rules and regulations issued with the approval of the Dominion Council.

In explanation of the disbanding last month of the Sea Cadets Band here, Major Langley pointed out that according to the rules and regulations of the Dominion Council, already referred to, it was required that before a boy joined the Sea Cadets Corps he must first be a member of the Sea Cadets Corps for at least one month.

FUTURE POLICY
The latter part of the president's address was occupied with the discussion of future policy, and here he emphasized that the building up of the Sea Cadets Corps should be the chief activity, not only the Victoria Corps already in existence, but that an effort should be made to establish subdivisions at some other points on the Island and the Gulf Islands. It had been urged that the opportunities were not as great as they might be for sending boys to sea. Even if true at present, it would not always be so; moreover, it was not necessary for a boy to express any intention of going to sea in order to qualify for the corps. A canvass had shown that a large percentage of the cadets did not wish a maritime career, but everyone would concede the great advantages to boys of the training and discipline which they received, sufficient reasons for giving the work unqualified support.

The best kind of publicity work for the Navy League was a parade through the streets of these lands, with, perhaps, a fine drum band at their head.

In this connection Major Langley stressed the need of securing suitable quarters for the Sea Cadets Corps, somewhere on the waterfront if possible, with boats for their use. The matter of a band should be a secondary consideration; in the past it had been altogether too much to the fore, and had obscured the practical and working part of the corps.

An appeal was made for every possible assistance to be given to the Dominion organizer, Captain Morris, on his arrival here next month from Toronto. Captain Morris' successful record in enlisting members in Vancouver, Calgary and other places last year was referred to.

The audited statement of Island division finances showed a balance on hand of $286.99.

In conclusion the chairman touched a more optimistic note, noting that the League on the Island, particularly in Victoria, had many strong friends who would give their wholehearted support if approached in the right way.

DELEGATE'S REPORT
Mrs. S. W. Raven, who attended the ninth annual meeting of the Dominion Council of the Navy League at Calgary last May as delegate from the Vancouver Island division, brought a report of the proceedings. That meeting had advocated a vigorous educational campaign, which is already cited as one of the objects of the League. It was a direct outgrowth of her report that the meeting drew up and adopted the resolution circulating the council. This was worded as follows:

"Resolved that the report of Mrs. S. W. Raven upon her attendance at the Dominion Council in May last be adopted; resolved, further, upon the consideration of such report that this meeting regrets that no action whatsoever was taken at the Dominion Council meeting upon the important and pressing subject of Canada's share in the naval defence of the Empire and that no indication of any definite policy has therefore been forthcoming as a guide to the supporters of the League throughout the Dominion."

Mrs. Raven reported that there were over 1,500 boys in training in naval cadets throughout Canada, and she called attention to the need of advertising more generally that the Navy League would also include the paying of annuities to aged and disabled sailors and their dependents, the amounts ranging from $36 to $360 per annum. She also spoke of the improvements which were to be made in The Sailor, already an excellent magazine. Mr. Langley, the president, had been given a very fine reception by the Dominion Council at its annual meeting. Some figures showing the financial position of the organization in the Dominion were quoted, the endowment fund securities amounting to $455,000, and total capital receipts last year to $30,742.18. General fund account totalled $95,016, and special fund account $850,000.

The meeting closed with a discussion of Island division conditions, there being at present branches only in Victoria and Deep Cove. An effort is to be made to organize this year at Nanaimo, Duncan, Ganges or Salt Spring, and other points.

Correspondence included a letter from the secretary of the Deep Cove branch, Mrs. Layard, asking if it would be possible to send out a speaker occasionally to assist in stimulating interest in the work. At the meeting last night Mrs. Layard asked that an expression of appreciation be sent to the I.O.E. for its work in the past, and that this organization be asked to continue its interest in the League.

WOMEN'S HOURS
IN STORES WILL BE LIMITED IN LENGTH

The Minimum Wage Board connected with the Department of Labor of the Province has made a ruling that in future women employed in mercantile places will be limited in their hours of labor to forty-eight hours a week. If there are exceptional circumstances that may require longer hours, provision will be made for the extension of the time by special permission of the department, but in such cases the employees must be paid overtime for the excess over the forty-eight hours a week.

The investigations of the board showed that there were some 3,500 women employed in the stores of the province. The decision was reached not to interfere with the minimum wage that was already set, but the hours are to be restricted to the average of eight hours a day.

Furs for Cold Weather

Shorthaired Furs to Be Worn for Every Day—Soft Colors Fashionable This Season

While coats of broadtail and similar short-haired furs are fashionable in the afternoon, the rougher furs, such as goat, doekin, pony skin, antelope, seal, calfskin, and others are for everyday wear, and striped furs, natural or worked, make or trim coats for cold weather, says an article in The London Times.

Ermine, an evening fur, is made into capes and cloaks and lines or is lined with velvet, lame and satin. Russian ermine, French ermine, ermine that is really rabbit, are worn in the evening. Mink, sable, chinchilla, sealskin, all the classic furs, are worn, but broadtail, astrakhan, lamb and pony, worked to look like broadtail, are the furs which are most fashionable for the afternoon, when satin and velvet are worn.

New hats, worn at tea time, are made of broad satin ribbon with loose, choux of ribbon over each ear. There is a new close-fitting hat, almost like a skull cap, which is made of felt and satin; the felt crown fits the head closely and the satin is arranged as a turned-back brim in a broad, soft band, pinched into a point over each ear. Another cap-like hat fits the head, and the turned-back brim is slit over the brow. Above the slit and catching the folds of the crown, which are drawn from back to front is set a jewelled pin. A plain felt cloche hat has a couple of shaving brush feathers, one up, one down, over the left ear. The plain hard hat, with no broken line or soft trimming, has disappeared.

SPORTS WEAR

Golfers may like to try a neat beige-grey jersey skirt, a jumper with a beige foundation and a green zig-zag pattern worked or woven all over it. For the car there would be a long coat of diagonally striped tweed trimmed with badger and lined with kasha. A plain, hand-knitted cardigan to match the color of the skirt might be added. The beige felt hat would be trimmed lightly with green. Or a kashmir wool jersey threaded with a gold stripe and a plain skirt, with a darker cardigan and overcoat, may be the outfit. Again, there is an ensemble in four shades of brown with the sweater woven into cubist designs of the darker shades on a light ground and with a tweed overcoat trimmed with plain material like the skirt and streaky brown fur. The new openwork, gold-threaded material, which looks like loose knitting, is not substantial, but it is fashionable. All shades of tobacco brown are worn. They are blended into plaids threaded with gold to form a silky surface. Threaded skirts of plaid material are worn with plain lame caques under a long tweed coat lined with fur, or there may be a short velvet coat lined with lame and a long cape, fur lined, to go over it. A fantastic outfit is worn in the afternoon, not in the morning.

Besides red, which always has a place in Winter colors, it is correct to wear soft shades of grey, blue, green, all of which are blended with another color or with gold. Into mauve grey, grey blue, grey green, and black and beige and white gold may be threaded. Mother-of-pearl lama, pale colors in lace, satin, velvet, a pearly pink, a tender blue, sau-de-nil green, and much white are worn in the evening. These soft colors are to be found in expensive materials only—velvets which are as fragile as muslin, satin which falls like velvet.

FOR EVENING WEAR

With deceptively longer skirts and slender, almost fitting bodices, evening dresses are delicately graceful. Over them are worn magnificent capes and coats. A new shade of yellow is seen in more threads with gold and trimmed with brown fur. It is lined with velvet and worn over a plain georgette dress of daffodil yellow, trimmed with dark topaz stones. Many red more cloaks threaded and lined with gold and trimmed with gold-green fur are worn over white dresses. A white dress is often worn with a black velvet cloak trimmed and lined with ermine. Jewels are the trimmings. Over a pale green dress may be worn a white ermine cloak lined with silver lame, or a lame cloak lined with green velvet. Satin cloaks lined with velvet, lame, or fur are growing popular.

Taffeta is worn in two ways. It is ideal for a picture dress, and is well contrived to illustrate the new fashion of swirling loose flounces at a slanting line round the figure to end in a big bunch or bow at the left side just below the hip towards the back, or a little lower down. In black, with no trimming but a jewelled necklace, this is to be worn at dinner. In grey, with purple amethysts in green with diamonds or pearls, it looks as fashionable. Shot taffeta is used for picture dresses. The hems and flounces have uneven edges, and the bodices may be trimmed with whatever trimming blends with the flounces, such as fine metal braiding, metal lace, or minute blossoms. The skirts of picture dresses are longer than others.

To Clean Oil Paintings

Directly one acquires a handsome oil painting housekeeping formula are enriched by a series of "Don'ts" contributed by those who already own pictures and by those who paint them. Don't wash your pictures; don't oil them; don't clean them with alcohol, ammonia, washing powder or paraffin oil; don't even touch them with paint unless it is absolutely necessary; don't let the sunlight fall directly on them. These are typical suggestions, disregarding them many a picture has been ruined. Honest dirt is less harmful to a painting than some of the methods for removing it. The practice of covering a picture with glass to keep out dust is condemned on the ground that it keeps dampness in, but it has this distinct advantage, it effectively checks the depredations of autoxidation and cleaners.

A person having the slightest knowledge of pictures may deem the barrier unnecessary, but that it is often required one story will prove. Not long ago it was found that an Italian sky in a valuable painting had lost its brilliancy. Its diminished glory seemed an impenetrable mystery, but just before the last trace of blue faded into dull grey a maid was caught scrubbing the sky with washing powder! She was an efficient scourer, and like all honest workers she had faith in the tools of the trade. The grime on the picture had seriously worried her, and she had applied her favorite remedy with results pleasing to herself but devastating to art.

Municipal Chapter Hears of Work

The monthly meeting of the Municipal Chapter, I.O.D.E., was held at the Hanley Building yesterday with the regent, Mrs. Hebdon Gillespie, in the chair, and a good representation of chapters. It was with sincere regret that the resignation of Mrs. E. C. Hayward was accepted. Mrs. Gillespie expressing her special appreciation of Mrs. Hayward's help. The Municipal Chapter was unanimous in its choice of her successor, Mrs. P. E. Corby, who was warmly welcomed upon assuming office.

The patronage of the Municipal Chapter, I.O.D.E., was requested by the Canadian Legion for the annual poppy ball to be held in the Empress Hotel on November 10, and a request from the Armistice Day committee to support Poppy Day on November 11, was referred to the chapters in the individual members to offer their services as taggers, as the Municipal Chapter is unable to convene another tag day. The needs of the Amputation Club were also referred to the chapters for their special consideration and support.

In reporting for the child welfare committee, Mrs. Miles mentioned the need of a piano for the Queen Alexandra Solarium at Mill Bay, and a sum of money towards that purpose was voted from the Alexandra Rose Day Fund.

A letter regarding the alleged disgraceful condition of several of the graves of pioneers in Ross Bay Cemetery was received from the Bishop of the Diocese, with special reference to well-known medical men, whose services to the early community entitled their last resting places to respect and care, and a committee was appointed to attend to the matter.

Miss A. B. Cooke, in reporting on educational work, asked for orders for the I.O.D.E. calendar to be sent in to her as early as possible. Already some 370 copies have been ordered and are now at Municipal headquarters for the education secretaries to take away.

The National Chapter, I.O.D.E., has endorsed the resolution sponsored by Mrs. Alice Thomson of this city, that every member of the order should purchase at least two copies of the calendar and increase their distribution in schools, municipal buildings and other public places. Mrs. Curtis Sampson drew the attention of the meeting to the curious incident of the Prince of Wales to Victoria, which appeared in The London Times, and a letter of protest is to be sent to that paper drawing attention to the errors made in the account.

The regent urged each chapter to give special consideration to the correspondence sent forward from national headquarters, especially the inspiring letter from the regent, Miss Church, and also the questionnaire regarding the present condition of the primary chapters. Each chapter has been provided with a copy of the report of the national annual meeting, and Mrs. Gillespie earnestly requested a close study of the material contained in it.

A request was received from the Provincial Chapter that Mrs. Hebdon Gillespie act as standard bearer during the sessions of the annual meeting of the Provincial Chapter at Burnaby next week, and Municipal Chapter was gratified at the honor done to their regent.

The Mirror of the Mode

By MARY MARSHALL

THERE is nothing at all mannish or masculine about wearing pajamas nowadays, and you have only to look at some of the new pajama costumes to know exactly what I mean. Still there are some old-fashioned women who rather shiver at the very thought of wearing them. "Dear me, I must be terrible feminine," they tell you. "I never could endure the idea of dressing like a man."

But nowadays pajamas are no more masculine than short hair or going to college or driving a car or smoking a cigarette—if you like that sort of thing.

And no one with half an eye could say that the pajama costume is any less modest than the modern frock with skirts. Even from the old-fashioned standards they are a whole lot more modest. Still a lot of women would feel it impossible to receive men guests at home for tea wearing a pajama costume.

But to do that isn't even unconventional, because quite a number of most exemplary women of unquestionable social position do wear pajamas at home. One of them even wears them for informal dining at home.

The fact is that the most conservative women in China and Turkey who still insist on wearing trousers. It is only the modern girls there who wear "bloomers" skirts.

Perhaps the reaction against the too short skirts will come in the form of pajamas for general wear.

Every woman wants a number of handbags or purses.

She should have special bags for special frocks—substantial leather bags for hard daytime wear, lighter bags for afternoon, bright, gleaming bags for evening. Of course, you will need to buy your bags occasionally, but you can add variety to your collection by making one or two.

Perhaps you think you couldn't make a handbag or that you wouldn't wear the sort of bag that you could make at home. But that is because you haven't an idea of what nice bags can be made at home.

If you are interested in making bags for yourself, send me a stamped, self-addressed envelope and I will send you sketch-diagram and directions for making several distinctive bags for various occasions.

Address: care of McClure Newspaper Syndicate, 373 Fourth Avenue, New York City.

Wedding Celebrated at St. John's

A charming wedding was solemnized on Tuesday evening at St. John's Church, when at 8 o'clock Rev. P. A. P. Chadwick, assisted by Rev. M. Bruce, in the presence of a large congregation, officiated at the marriage of Alexandra Victoria (Queenie) Graves, youngest daughter of Mrs. Graves and the late Mr. C. Graves, of Cloverdale Avenue, to Stanley Cecil Hawkins, younger son of Mr. C. D. Hawkins and the late Mrs. Emily Hawkins, of this city.

The bride entered the church on the arm of her eldest brother, Mr. Clifford Graves, and looked bewitching in her wedding dress of white beaded georgette over white satin. Her veil, surmounted by a wreath of orange blossoms, was caught at the nape of the neck by a spray of blossoms, and she carried a bouquet of roses and carnations.

She was attended by Miss Ella Chafe, wearing a dress of peach-colored tulle, with silver ribbon and a hat of peach georgette to match. Her bouquet was of carnations and gladioli. The two little flower girls were Sylvia Schofield and Emily Aspinwall, nieces of the bride, carrying white and pink asters. The groom was supported by Mr. Archie Riddie. Ushers were Mr. Reginald Graves and Mr. George Fox.

To show the esteem in which the principals were held by the various organizations of St. John's, in the activities of which both have been prominent for some years, the church was prettily decorated for the occasion by the Evening Branch of the W. A. The choir was present, and as the wedding party emerged from the vestry, after the signing of the register, the organist, Mr. G. Jennings, played Mendelssohn's Wedding March.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride's mother, 772 Cloverdale Avenue, where the newly-married couple received their numerous guests under an arch of dahlias. Assisting in the reception of guests was the bride's mother, dressed in black maroon, trimmed with black and silver lace, with a hat of black velvet. Refreshments were served by the bride's two sisters, Mesdames Aspinwall and Birnie.

Luring the evening, Miss Lily Muir sang appropriate soprano solos which were cordially appreciated by the guests.

The four-tiered cake having been cut by the bride, Rev. P. A. P. Chadwick proposed the toast to the happy pair, which was briefly responded to by the groom. Mr. and Mrs. Hawkins left by the night bus for Vancouver, where the honeymoon is being spent. The bride's going-away costume was of power-bue georgette, with hat en suite, and a moleskin coat, the gift of the groom.

Among the many beautiful and useful presents received was particularly to be noticed a handsome set of Rogers 1847 silver, the gift of the staff of the Provincial Department of Lands, where the groom has been employed for many years, also a cheque from Mr. Claude L. Harrison, the bride's late employer; a silver cake stand from the W. P. A. of St. John's, and a lovely china tea service from the Girls' Branch of the Women's Auxiliary of the church. The bride's gift to the groom was a silver ring. To the bridesmaid, the groom gave a brooch to the flower girl, pearl bracelets and to the best man and others tiepins.

Island Women Are Active in all Institute Plans

COLWOOD

The monthly meeting of the Colwood Women's Institute, held in the Institute Room on Wednesday afternoon, was a very enthusiastic one. The president, Miss M. Kelly, took the chair, and there was a good attendance of members and guests.

A letter of thanks was read from the Solarium committee for the making of twenty-four nightgowns. It was decided to exhibit at the 1928 Victoria Fair. Committees were appointed and work for exhibit will be commenced at once. A vote of thanks was passed to Mrs. H. Parker for a gift of thirty books to the Institute library. Rev. H. B. Allen gave an interesting talk on "Horticulture." Miss H. Kelly, nurse in charge of E.R.P.A., then gave an instructive address on "Public Health Teaching," which has done a great deal towards bringing a realization of the responsibilities of members of the community towards the preservation of health. She pointed out that, as in every other phase of reform, new theories continually present themselves to the fore, arising out of research work and experience. The "new public health" teaches us that the responsibility of preventing the spread of contagious disease lies not so much with the garbage pail or the manure heap as with the individual. Miss L. Percy, junior teacher at Langford School, and Miss C. Cullum, junior teacher at Colwood School, gave their experiences regarding the modern health crusade which is being carried on in the schools and asked the parents to encourage the children to carry out the rules and to honorably fill in each day each duty fulfilled on the forms given to them. A hearty vote of thanks was accorded the speakers, Mrs. H. Parker and Mrs. J. Goodall were tea hostesses.

METCHOSIN

At a directors' meeting of the Metchochin Women's Institute held recently, arrangements were discussed for the pioneer gathering to be held on November 25, in the Metchochin Hall. Mr. H. C. Heigeson promised to take charge of the concert programme, which will include old songs, duets and community singing. Mr. A. Heigeson will direct old-time dances, a fiddler having been engaged for the music. Many of the pioneers have been invited to attend. Mrs. J. D. Gordon, provincial president, has been invited to speak at the next monthly meeting, to be held on November 3, on "Institute Policies."

Anglican W.A. Decide to Meet Once a Year

TORONTO, Oct. 20.—It was decided at yesterday's session of the Dominion Board of the Woman's Auxiliary of the Anglican Church that triennial meetings will be discontinued in the future, and will be replaced by annual conferences. The conferring of a Dominion life membership on Mrs. Frances S. Bruce, president of Chester Branch for the past ten years, was a feature of the session.

An interesting speaker was Miss Noran Bowman, of Japan, who revealed intimate glimpses of women and children in the Orient. She told the gathering that smoking, a favorite indulgence, was renounced by many women, in order that they might devote the money thus saved to the missions. It was not the gathering that smoking, a favorite indulgence, was renounced by many women, in order that they might devote the money thus saved to the missions. It was not the gathering that smoking, a favorite indulgence, was renounced by many women, in order that they might devote the money thus saved to the missions.

The statistical story of the Woman's Auxiliary of the Anglican Church, as presented yesterday at the meeting of the Dominion Board, showed that $200,650 was raised in 1926 and that the numerical strength of the organization showed an increase of 13,689 since the last triennial meeting.

A vivid description of Germany's entrance into the League of Nations was given by Canon Cody, of Toronto, at the evening session. The speaker declared public good-will to be absolutely essential if the league was to have any positive value.

PARTY AT MARIGOLD

This will inaugurate a series of card parties that the association is to hold this winter, and it is requested that as many as possible attend. Playing will commence at 8 o'clock. ## FIVE PILOTS OF MAJORS FACING AXE

McInnes, Howler, McAllister, Schalk and Harris' Berths Uncertain, According to Hot Stove League

BUCKY HARRIS MAY BE GIVEN RELEASE

Billy Evans May Be New Manager of Cleveland—Griffiths Denies Tris Speaker Will Go

DAVE BANCROFT

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—The release of Dave Bancroft as manager of the Boston Braves is believed to be the first of many changes that will hit the major league pilots this winter.

Successors for at least five other managers are being picked by the first session of the hot stove league.

Stuffy McInnes of the lowly and much-abused Phillies, is also tabbed as through in Philadelphia. Stuffy no longer wants to be named to William Baker's hirelings. And no one can blame him for that. Art Fletcher didn't know until he had been named as manager of the Phils and appointed coach of the Yanks.

MORE CHANGES IN AMERICAN There are more changes expected in the American League than in the National. Dan Howler may not be back with the St. Louis Browns and it is said that Jack McAllister is finished as leader of the Cleveland Indians. Ray Schalk may not be the White Sox manager next year and it is figured, too, that Bucky Harris may lose out with the Senators.

Bill Evans, for twenty years an umpire in the American League, can have the Cleveland job for the asking. He may take it, too, now that his friend of years' standing, Dan Johnson, is quitting the American League.

If he doesn't, Roger Peckinpaugh or George Burns, first-sacker, may be offered McAllister's berth.

No one has come to the surface for Howler's position. There never are many seekers for a thankless task.

RUMORS FLY FAST WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.—Rumors continued to fly fast today that Tris Speaker would not play with Washington next season, but all of them met the same denial from President Griffith. ## TERMINALS SEEK CAPITALS' SCALP

Mainlanders Bringing Formidable Squad to Give Battle With Victoria in Big Four Canadian Rugby

LOCAL TEAM TO BE AT TOP STRENGTH

Vancouver's Big Four Canadian Rugby team will invade the Island tomorrow determined to get revenge on Victoria for the sore-lacing advantage they had in the season by the champion Capitals. The "golden tornado," encouraged by their showing against the formidable New Westminster team, followed closely by a tie with the league-leading Varsity, feel that they have a good chance to slip a win over the rival back fields both having plenty of speed. Lack of aggressiveness, both on offense and defense, by the Victoria forwards, has been a severe handicap to the champions in both their Varsity and New Westminster encounters, and it is expected that Page will be his best to capitalize on it.

Coach Rex Page has given his wards a number of effective new plays to increase their scoring ability and has drilled his linemen severely on offensive and defensive tactics. Tomorrow's game, according to two neutral coaches, will be in favor of the team with the best line, as the rival back fields both having plenty of speed. Lack of aggressiveness, both on offense and defense, by the Victoria forwards, has been a severe handicap to the champions in both their Varsity and New Westminster encounters, and it is expected that Page will be his best to capitalize on it.

While Victoria and Vancouver are battling here for supremacy, New Westminster will be mixing it with Varsity at Vancouver. Should the Collegians and Victoria win, Varsity will still have a slight edge in the league standing with the locals close behind. On the other hand, if the Salmonbellies take U.B.C. into camp and Vancouver turns the trick on the Capitals, the entire four teams will be on a practical level. Standings now are:

	V.	L.	T.	P.
Varsity	1	0	1	2
Victoria	1	1	1	3
Vancouver	1	1	1	3
New West.	0	1	1	2

VICTORIA FORMIDABLE Victoria will field a formidable squad to battle the Mainlanders. Coach Eric Cook has been putting his men through strenuous workouts for the past week and reports every man to be in the pink of condition. Several new plays have been introduced and the champions are confident that they will send the Vancouver outfit home smarting under defeat.

English Teams May Withdraw From Olympics

Among leading English amateur athletes it is considered likely that England will withdraw from the Olympic games unless the international Olympic committee, with headquarters in Paris, recedes its decision to pay amateur football players attending the games.

The general committee of the British Amateur Athletic Association has notified the British Olympic council that it opposes payment to participants in the games and expresses the belief that it will effect not only the success of the American games next year but all future Olympics. The association also requests the British Olympic council to call a conference of amateurs to consider the subject of amateur contributions for British participation until the subject of payment to athletes has been taken up.

B.C. FIR USED AT QUEBEC CITY

Large Quantity Utilized for Cribs in Great Harbor Development at Wolfe's
Cove

NEW PULP PROJECT AT BEAVER COVE

The growing use of British Columbia fir is again demonstrated in the great timber development in progress at Wolfe's Cove, near Quebec City. It is expected these extensive harbor works will be in service by the end of navigation next year. The new dock wall, half a mile long, will have a total height of sixty-four feet, from the bed of the St. Lawrence to the top of the concrete wall. The wall will be placed on a foundation composed of seventeen cribs constructed entirely of British Columbia fir. The dimensions of the cribs are 200 feet long by sixty feet wide, and forty-five feet deep. Approximately 17,000,000 feet of timber was used for the construction of the cribs, which have been sunk in position in a straight line, parallel with the old shore line. These cribs, construction upon which commenced in June, are now complete. The concrete wall will not be erected on the cribs until after the descent of the ice next Spring.

While attention has been directed this year to the plans of the Canadian Crown Willamette Company for the utilization of the great volume of water power in the Campbell River district, another company has been conducting extensive surveys for development of hydro-electric energy farther north. The Canadian Forest Products, Limited, which is a Dominion subsidiary of the International Harvester Company, and a reorganization of the former Beaver Cove Pulp and Timber Company, has been conducting surveys in the Nimpkish River area, in the northern part of the Island. The company, which has a large stand of pulp wood, proposes to establish one of the largest pulp and paper and sawmill enterprises at Beaver Cove. The original proposal was to obtain 25,000 horsepower by harnessing the Nimpkish River, but it is probable that this quantity will be increased by utilizing interlocking lakes.

The company has a small paper mill at Beaver Cove, which it is proposed to extend and develop to a large production. Throughout the Island forest products output is active, most of the larger mills shipping extensively.

Better Representation On Railways and Grain Boards Wanted by West

EQUALIZATION of freight rates on grain, governmental research into utilization of the waste products of industry, reorganization of the Railway Commission and Grain Board to secure adequate Western representation, were subjects stressed at yesterday's sessions of the Western Canada Development and Unity League Convention.

Mr. Norman McLean, of the Vancouver Associated Property Owners, said that the purpose of the Western Unity League was to discuss problems of the West.

"We have a vast country here, a country much larger than the United States, with its Eastern viewpoint, to understand the requirements of the West. Only through such organizations as the Western Unity League and community spirit can we interest the East in our problems."

Referring to the railway board, he showed, how despite the great railway mileage in Western Canada, there was only one Western man on that board. All the rest were men of the East, with the Eastern viewpoint. "Why, we should have three representatives on that board," he declared.

The grain board was situated at Fort William, hundreds of miles from the grain territory, a board comprising Eastern men, with Eastern sympathy and an Eastern viewpoint. The West was represented by only one member on the railway commission. As long as this situation existed, Western Canada would have the same troubles as she had today.

He recommended that the league appoint a committee to see members of the Federal House and have the membership of these three boards changed. At present the eyes of these men were trained on the East because they have been trained that way and because of their environment.

PEACE RIVER AREA

Speaking of the future of the Peace River district, he said that the chief opposition to put a railway through the Peace River area from those who claimed that the railway should not be built until that portion of the country was settled, was that it would be developed by settlers.

Major Newton, of Prince Rupert, deplored the lack of interest from the Prairie Provinces in the viewpoint of the Western Development League. The speaker spoke highly of the keen interest taken in the troubles of Western Canada by Mayor Gregory, of North Battleford, and Mr. Norman McLean, of Vancouver, who had been to the problems of the West in his address on "Interprovincial Trade."

Mayor Newton did not think any amount of debating on Western problems would get the league anywhere unless a committee was appointed to deal with the problems and bring in some resolutions which might bring about some action. As a result of this discussion a committee was appointed. The members of this committee comprise: Mayor Hardie, of Lethbridge; Mayor R. H. Gies, of Vancouver; Alderman Farnillo, of Edmonton; Mr. Norman McLean, of Vancouver; and Reeve Vincent, of West Vancouver.

MAYOR HARDIE
Mayor Hardie, of Lethbridge, contended that no amount of resolutions passed here would get the West anywhere. The problems were purely economic. Farmers would not ship grain west because a reduction in rates had been given, because a corresponding reduction had been given eastward. The league should investigate the economic conditions for a solution of Western problems. Grain would not be shipped to Vancouver or Victoria until the economic situation changed and this would only be brought about by enterprise, ability and business acumen on the part of the grain ports.

THE SCREEN

Coliseum—"Is Zat So?" starring George O'Brien.
Dominion—"Chang," with an all-star cast.

THE STAGE
Coliseum—Vaudeville.
Playhouse—"Hits and Bits From Everywhere."
Crystal Garden—Dancing and swimming.

COLISEUM Slices of New York's kaleidoscopic life where ambitions and personalities clash with dramatic results are seen in Thomas Meighan's new Paramount picture, "We're All Gamblers," now showing at the Coliseum Theatre. It is a story which shows Meighan in a new type of role, and it has been directed by James Cruze, maker of "The Covered Wagon" and "Old Ironsides." Charlie Chaplin as a pathetic underfoot struggling along with hundreds of others in search of gold in the Klondike, plus the Charlie Chaplin comedy fame, with all the Chaplin tricks of old—this is the keynote of what has been described as the greatest Chaplin comedy ever filmed—"The Gold Rush," also showing at the Coliseum Theatre.

DOMINION If human daring and theatre patience, photographic skill, realism and interest count in the making of a good picture, then "Chang," which opened Monday at the Dominion Theatre, is one of the greatest films ever produced. Unseen dangers, unknown fears, nature at its worst, life in one of its most thrilling phases—these go to make up a picture of camera pioneering that is unsurpassed. There are scenes that leave one breathless. No description can do "Chang" justice. "Chang" to us is one of the most thrilling pictures we have ever seen.

PLAYHOUSE What to do if a theatre person were a motion picture casting director is a question. "Pick five of the most beautiful women, one a skilful vamp, all good trouperes, and all absolutely different types!" That was the order. Dan Kelly, casting director of First National Studios, filled for Ray Rockett, producer, and Joseph Henaberry, director, of the rollicking domestic comedy, "Lonesome Ladies," now showing at the Playhouse Theatre. Spending the night in "The Haunted House" was what the troupe in "Hits and Bits From Everywhere" did the big revue at the Playhouse Theatre this week had to do. The "Cat and the Canary" is a catastrophe beside this thriller.

COLISEUM Fox Films had to buy a pair of the smallest boxing gloves in Los Angeles county when Philippe De Lacay was signed to play the role of the child in "Is Zat So?" now showing at the Coliseum Theatre. This youngster has the tiniest hand of any child actor in Hollywood. George O'Brien taught Philippe the manly art of self-defence, while Edmund Lowe sat on "Chang" justice, and emitted crisp and effective comment.

CAPITOL During the making of THEATRE Richard Dix's latest Paramount picture, "Man Power," which shows at the Capitol Theatre today, it was necessary to take a census of the cameramen after each scene. A heavy rainstorm was staged on a hillside of adobe mud and cameramen were stationed at various points to photograph Dix as he went by in a motor tractor. The mud was so slippery that several men skidded down the hill into the ditches. Each time a cameraman was found missing all work was stopped until he could clamber back up to place. On the stage are seen a few exceptional vaudeville turns, which include the celebrated Russian tenor, Maxim Brody, in a selected programme of songs; Blandford and Pharis, an exceptional team dancing team, who offer terpsichorean novelties; and Lorraine Fraser, the vest pocket soprano soloist.

"The Stolen Bride" Screened Next Week At the Playhouse

Another prominent figure in European film circles has been brought to America in the person of Alexander Korda, noted Hungarian director, whose first effort in this country, "The Stolen Bride," will be shown at the Playhouse screen all next week. Billie Dove plays the starring role in the picture, with Lloyd Hughes, Lilyan Tashman, Armand Kalis and others in support. Korda, unlike so many other foreign directors, leans to sophisticated comedy and humor rather than the heavy drama so long associated with European films. "The Stolen Bride" was written and produced for First National by Carey Wilson.

Palmer Christian is a name rapidly coming to the fore among the great organists of today. One of the secrets of his success, in addition to his undoubted talents and ability as a musician, is his gift of programme making. Mr. Christian's programmes are designed first of all, to maintain the interest of the listener, though never by resorting to the trivial or the use of clap-trap methods. He believes that a distinct change of mood between numbers is an essential in programme making. He also be-

Just why three men should fall in love with a widow and leave her unattached sister severely alone, and just how three men can manage to get themselves so hopelessly tangled—all in the space of sixty minutes—is the plot of one of the cleverest comedy sketches the Co-Optimist Company has presented in a long time. Playgoers will find this a capital bill, as the dialogue in the play is well above the average standard of farce, and the situations are extraordinarily funny. Those taking part are: Mrs. P. E. Corby, Miss Clare Vincent and Mrs. Legge-Willis, Messrs. L. L. Phillips, Richard Blomfield and Legge-Willis.

The Crystal Garden Concert Orchestra will contribute several selections from some of the musical comedies now running in New York and London. After the performance the audience is invited to adjourn to the south ballroom where dancing will continue until midnight.

Concert tickets for a limited number of reserved seats may be obtained at the Crystal Garden box office anytime today.

PARENT-TEACHER MEETING IS HELD

Interesting Address Given on Aims and Objects of Association by Major Clarke

SIDNEY, Oct. 20.—The monthly meeting of the Sidney Parent-Teacher Association was held in the schoolhouse on Tuesday evening. The president, Mrs. Gilman, occupying the chair. There was a large attendance of members and friends. The secretary read the minutes of the previous meeting which were adopted and the regular routine business was disposed of. The forthcoming play and concert was discussed, and suggestions were made for the costumes to be used.

Major Clarke, of Victoria, gave a very interesting and instructive lecture on the "Aims and Objects of the Association." He stated that an amount of useful work could be accomplished when the teachers had the co-operation of the parents, and when all worked together for the good of the school. He cited quite a number of projects which could be accomplished with the unanimous approval of the parents, and left the president, Mrs. Gilman, some splendid suggestions for activities the society might engage in.

Major Clarke then threw a number of interesting slides on the screen depicting trips through the Okanagan Valley and district, showing the vast difference after the scheme of irrigation had been carried out. The pictures were made very attractive by the explanations made by Major Clarke.

A hearty vote of thanks was tendered Major Clarke on motion of Mr. Ramsay, seconded by Miss Stott, and carried unanimously.

U.S. BUILDING FEWER SHIPS

AMERICA DROPS FROM FIFTH PLACE TO SEVENTH AT SEPTEMBER 30

Total Tonnage in World Is on Increase Though Lower Than Pre-War Record

American shipbuilding decreased 50,000 gross tons in the quarter ended September 30, below the total for the previous quarter, according to Lloyd's Register.

The United States dropped from fifth place at the end of June to seventh place. France and Denmark having surpassed it in ship construction in the period of the report, only three per cent of the 3,000,000 tons merchant shipping contracts throughout the world being under the auspices of American yards.

At the end of September last year the United States had 119,723 gross tons under construction, whereas the figure for September this year was only 91,070.

The world's total of 3,000,000 tons under the pre-war record on June 30, 1914, yet it is nearly 1,250,000 more than a year ago. Great Britain and Ireland are at the top now with 1,536,416 tons—a gain of 146,028 over the preceding quarter and 761,619 more than the quarter expiring with September a year ago.

Lloyd's statistics show that Germany has attained second place with 516,245, as against fifth place one year before when her total merchant construction was 127,321. Germany is second to the United Kingdom in motorship contracts, which are still advancing in general, the world's total on September 30 last being 1,589,000, or more than half of all merchant shipbuilding.

much United Kingdom, Germany, Denmark, Sweden and Russia are the only gainers in tonnage according to Lloyd's report. Italy and Holland occupy third and fourth places, respectively, followed by France, Denmark and America.

By CHRISTOPHER B. BOOTH

CHAPTER XXI

Back in the house, after the departure of Polly and her mother, for the lawn, Mrs. Vera Kingslake sat for some minutes, making neither move nor sound. Her eyes were upon Bob Dolliver who had been to move restlessly about the room as if his mind were laboring in the throes of some tremendous inner excitement.

Paul Grimshaw took out his cigarette case and the cigarette trembled slightly between his lips as he applied a match to the end of it. Despite the brightness of the sunlit day, the big old room was plunged in half-shadows; the match flame played about his fingers and Vera Kingslake noticed a swelling discolouration about the middle digit.

"You've hurt yourself, Paul," she said absently.

"Oh, that! Nothing serious. Slammed the door on it this morning; had forgotten about it in all this excitement. A bit painful at times, but nothing to bother about."

Bob Dolliver abruptly wheeled across the room and headed for the door without saying anything. Paul stared after him and then shook his head slowly.

"Poor Bob!" he murmured. "He's all cut up about this thing. Naturally he would be—his finger-prints on the gun. But it's ridiculous; the missing counterfeiting plates prove who did for Uncle John."

"Is it—so ridiculous, Paul?"

"Oh?"

"The plates might have been taken as a blind, don't you think?"

"Oh, I say, Vera!" he protested. "You don't really think that Bob?"

Vera Kingslake's lips set grimly.

"That—that 'little push' you were going to give him; I've been thinking that you may have pushed him—too hard. What did you say to him, anyhow, Paul?"

Paul inhaled deeply, and Vera reached out her hand. "Let me have one of yours," she said, "mine are upstairs." She took a cigarette and lighted it.

"What was it you said to him?" she insisted.

"Nothing much," he answered, frowning. "I didn't get very far; he admitted that he loved Polly, but didn't have enough money to marry her. He seemed quite reconciled to Strawn having her."

Vera Kingslake drew in a deep puff of smoke and exhaled it slowly.

"How these do steady nerves! So he was quite reconciled was he? Perhaps it seemed that way. We saw how 'reconciled' he was at the breakfast table when Strawn announced that he and Polly were engaged."

"Great God, Vera!" cried Paul. "You're hinting that Bob killed Uncle John!"

"Am I?"

"Yes, and I don't like to hear it; it's unworthy of you, Vera. Why, confound it, the first thing I'll know you'll be accusing me, thinking that I did it to get his money."

"No, I won't be doing that, Paul. First you weren't in the house and second, you wouldn't have had the nerve. You're really a coward, I think. No, I'm not hinting, Paul, but—"

Her mouth set into a grim line. "I want the right man punished."

Paul stared at her for a moment. Tears flamed the woman's eyes.

"No one will ever know how much I loved your uncle!" she answered with a low-voiced tenderness.

"And that was why you wanted me to help make a match between Bob and Polly—so that Uncle John couldn't have her?"

"I'll never rest, Paul, until I see the right man punished; I can do that—for him."

"Even Uncle John didn't care the snap of his finger—about you! You're a queer woman, Vera."

"Perhaps all women are 'queer' when they're in love, Paul. I don't believe Jagers killed your uncle."

Paul toyed with the tips of his moustache.

"Somehow I don't think so, either," he agreed. "I'm sticking to the three-fingered man. The counterfeiting plates are gone; he's the one after them."

"There's only one way to prove that, Paul, and that's to find out some way that the three-fingered man got in and out of the house through the bookroom. We proved last night how impossible that was."

"Makes no difference," insisted Paul. "I'm sticking to it that the three-fingered man did for Uncle John."

"But how did he get Jagers' gun?"

"Oh, what's the use, Vera? All these questions just lead us around in circles. I'm not a detective. I'm going to get a drink. And he got up abruptly from the chair and left Vera Kingslake alone in the room—alone with her thoughts and suspicions."

Something like five minutes passed when Jasper Baskerville came in, he having just finished the removal of the dirt which his face and hands had accumulated in helping Tommy Oliver establish the fact that the bookcases concealed no secret exit.

"Won't you please come over here and sit down," said Vera; "I was hoping that I would have a chance to talk with you—alone."

J.B. was equally pleased, remembering his resolution to study this woman at closer range—the woman whose room was so near the study in which John Strawn had been done to death. He sat down in a chair near her, regretting that her face was so shrouded by the shadows; he wanted a better chance to study her.

"You have something to tell me?" he inquired.

Vera leaned forward. "What do you think?" she demanded. "Do you think that the right man has been arrested?"

"He is, up to date, Mrs. Kingslake, the most obvious suspect. I would not care to commit myself further than that. So far I have only the physical facts as I have found them to go on. Of course, strictly speaking, I have no official interest in the murder except as it affects the missing plates. I want to help solve the murder because I feel that only the solution of that can answer the question—Where are the plates?"

Vera looked disappointed.

"Oh, I see!" she murmured. "Then you think the stealing of the plates was—the motive?"

"Up to date, madam, that is the only motive that has appeared."

"Wouldn't it be reasonable, Mr. Baskerville—you see, I caught your name—that the plates might have been taken to—divert suspicion?"

J.B. gave her another quick glance, a little surprised that this woman, just a little while before in the clutch of a wild, despairing grief, should have advanced this conclusion which showed some calm thinking.

"It's reasonable," he admitted. "What I said was that, so far, it is the only motive that has appeared. Motive is the big thing to look for in any case of murder; no one kills without motive."

"What motive could Jagers have had, Mr. Baskerville?"

"So far as I know, only to get the counterfeiting plates. We must not forget that he is a man with a past previous record who has spent time in prison; to such a man the plates and the banknote paper, the two big essentials to printing a large amount of bogus currency, reaching into the thousands, might be considered a temptation. Money! One of the greatest motives, madam."

"I feel that it is my duty," Vera said after a pause, "to tell you that as another man who had a motive."

It was—jealousy.

Baskerville waited without interruption; he was thinking that she herself might have the same motive—jealousy. There crossed his mind the suspicion that she might be trying deliberately to confuse the trail in order to divert suspicion from herself.

"It is the man who has already come under suspicion," went on Vera; "the man whose finger-prints were on the gun."

"Dolliver," nodded J.B.

"Yes, Dolliver; the reason he was packing up to leave the house was that at the breakfast table Mr. Strawn announced his engagement to Polly."

"I thought as much."

"You did. Then I'm not telling you anything new."

"What was Dolliver's reaction when he heard the news?" asked Baskerville.

"He went into such a nervous funk that he had to leave the table. Oh, I know that doesn't prove anything. Mr. Baskerville, but—there's something under the surface. I know it; I feel it!"

J.B. leaned slightly forward in the chair.

"Do you dislike Mr. Dolliver?" he asked bluntly.

Vera Kingslake's chin lifted. "You think I am acting for spite? No! I want to see justice done; I want to see the right man punished."

"But you do dislike the girl—Polly," pressed J.B.

"Not particularly. She's just a bit of clay that her mother works between her fingers. Her mother drove her into an engagement with Mr. Strawn. The woman's broke—she had to marry Polly to a rich husband."

J.B. rubbed his chin and looked towards the ceiling.

"Was there any evidence that Polly was fond of Dolliver?" he inquired.

"Well, there's plenty of it now. If you haven't seen that she's hiding something then you're a rotten detective."

Baskerville smiled without resentment. Mrs. Kingslake's motive in posting him as to the state of affairs in the house was not absolutely without rancor, and he still dabbled with the thought that it might all be a smoke screen thrown around herself. "There was the slamming door to be remembered."

"May I ask you, Mrs. Kingslake, when you last saw Strawn alive?" he inquired. Vera's answer came without hesitation.

"Directly after breakfast," she replied. "I went directly to my room from the dining-room. Mr. Strawn had left us downstairs while he went up to the study with his mail. The study door was open; I saw him as I passed through the hall to my bedroom."

"He was alone at the time?"

"Yes, I think so," Vera answered. J.B. considered for a moment and then decided to try a shot in the dark. He leaned considerably closer to the woman and murmured gently.

"Mrs. Kingslake, when was your first knowledge that Jagers, the butler, had a pistol?"

The question startled her; perhaps it was only puzzled confusion.

"I—I don't know what you mean by that," she stammered. "I—I never knew that he had a pistol; that is—that is, until I heard them talking, heard them saying that Mr. Strawn had been shot with the butler's gun."

Baskerville relaxed into his chair again, not quite certain what he ought to judge for her reply.

"What—what made you ask me that?" demanded Vera.

"A detective," he answered evasively, "often asks a good many questions. That's the only way he can find out things, and that doesn't always work. Would you mind doing me a favor, Mrs. Kingslake? See if you can find those two persons we have just been talking about—Dolliver and Polly Eastman—and tell them that I would like to talk to them in here—together."

An eager light shone in Vera's eyes.

"Then you think—"

"Not with much success so far," answered J.B.
